Rifton Company Plans Anniversary

Parade, Dinner to Mark 10th Birthday of Volunteers

The tenth anniversary of the Rifton Fire Company will be celebrated Saturday afternoon with a parade followed by a dinner in the evening at the firehouse.

The fire company has enjoyed 10 highly satisfactory years since residents of the community decided in the early months of 1943 to form a company or district. After several meetings the following citizens were appointed to form the company: H. T. Williams, J. Tervo, L. Palkowicz, H. Ashcroft and G. Kidd, with W. Walker being elected as treasurer. At their own expense members of the committee went to Kingston, Albany, etc., to make arrangements for formation of the proposed company and the collection which was taken to defray their expenses was not used but was turned over to the company after its organization.

Company Is Formed

The fire district was organized in July and the Rifton Fire Company formed on July 23, 1943, with Williams, Tervo, Palkowics, Ashcroft and Kidd as commissioners and Walker as treasurer.

First officers of the company were E. Frost, president; N. Phillips, secretary, L. C. Hornbostel, treasurer; H. Pekarsky, Tervo and T. Flowers, trustees; Tervo, fire chief; J. Grady, assistant chief; C. Kidd, captain; E. Wagner, Jr., first lieutenant; R. Wheeler, second lieutenant, and J. Salmi, J. Devaney and Ashcroft, fire wardens. The by-laws committee was composed of Palkowics, W. Walker and E. Wagner, Jr.

In 1944 a skid pump and equipment from the Office of Civilian Defense was obtained, the pump mounted on a truck and used until the present pumper truck was purchased.

Firehouse Is Erected

Volunteers from the company leveled and laid the foundation for a firehouse on a lot purchased from E. Balfe in 1944 and a building two stories high was erected to house the truck and to furnish a meeting room. Bonds in the amount of $10,500 were approved by taxpayers for the construction of the firehouse and purchase of the pumper. Funds for current expenses were raised by holding card parties, dances and other social events.

In 1945 the first in a series of carnivals was held under the direction of Charles Elmendorf to raise money for additions to the building. During the past 10 years firemen have donated to the district more than $10,000 raised through various means.

In 1947 the erection of an addition to the firehouse, the memorial hall, was completed and in

East Berliners Go West Again, Get Additional Food

Thousands Ignore Soviet Promises; Propaganda Howls Heard From Reds

Berlin, July 15 (AP)—Thousands of hungry East Berliners scorned Soviet promises today and came to West Berlin's "relief market" for food they cannot buy in bare-shelved Communist stores behind the Iron Curtain.

It was the second day of a practical food relief program which has brought howls of rage from Communist propagandists.

The food distributed was not much in relation to the 18 million people living on short rations in Soviet East Germany but it was a severe blow to Communist pride.

Right on the sector border, in full view of both east and west, "capitalistic" West Berlin was doling out food to the people Moscow claimed it could feed without western interference when it turned down a 15 million dollar American food offer.

The way East Berliners snapped up the western food at less than a fifth the normal price proved the emptiness of Moscow's claims — and of East Berlin's grocery stores.

Milk, Potatoes Go

More than 1,000 quarts of milk and 11 tons of potatoes were distributed before noon today. Yesterday's output was 1,820 quarts of milk, 2,200 pounds of cherries and 11,200 oranges.

Willy Kressmann, the West Berlin borough mayor who organized the market, said he would try to keep it open again tomorrow "if we can raise the money."

The whole project was one of warm hearted charity, private contributions and public relief funds. The food offered by the United States waited for Soviet permission to cross the border.

Communist propagandists worked desperately to appease the east Germans incensed by the rejection of American food. The Red news agency ADN claimed that nearly 3,000 freight cars of food from the Soviet Union have been sent to East Germany since July 1, with Poland contributing 84 carloads of meat and fish, China 35 carloads of rice, and Albania 6 cars of tobacco.

Reports of food shortages still continued to appear in East German newspapers, however.

Will Quit Post

Athens, Greece, July 15 (AP)—A U. S. embassy source said today Ambassador John E. Peurifoy will quit his post here Aug. 9 and return to Washington for reassignment. The source said Cavendish Cannon, former ambassador to Portugal, has been named tentatively as Peurifoy's successor.

Showdown Might Break Truce Talks

Secret Session Is Due At Panmunjom—Reds Claim UN Walked Out of Parley

Panmunjom, July 15 (AP)—An authoritative source said tonight a showdown is coming between allied and Communist truce negotiators tomorrow in a secret session which will "make or break the talks."

"There is a very distinct possibility of another breakdown in the talks," the source said. He added that the veil of secrecy will be lifted from the negotiations if there is a breakdown.

There were strong indications the showdown would come over Red demands for the recapture of non-Communist Korean prisoners freed last month and iron-clad guarantees from the UN that South Korea would honor a truce.

The source said the meeting will bring a "showdown on worsening prospects for a quick armistice."

'Will Make or Break'

"The meeting will make or break the talks," he said. "Tomorrow will be the showdown."

The source, who could not be identified, gave his estimate of the truce situation after the Chinese Communist radio claimed the UN command negotiators "walked out" of Wednesday's truce meeting.

But Peiping radio made it clear there would be another meeting at the customary hour of 11 a. m. on Thursday (9 p. m. EST Wednesday).

The Peiping radio said:

"The other side unilaterally declared a recess and walked out of the meetings."

A UN command spokesman said only: "No comment. We never comment on Communist propaganda broadcasts."

The negotiators met for 21 minutes Wednesday and the allied delegation announced afterward that another session would be held at 11 a. m. Thursday (9 p. m. EST Wednesday).

Allies Are Pessimistic

Allied officers here were openly pessimistic over chances of an early armistice. They said the big Communist attack on the east-central front indicates the Reds do not plan to sign a truce soon.

On the other hand, President Eisenhower's special truce emissary said as he landed in the U. S. Tuesday that the agreement he reached with President Syngman Rhee "should assure the signing of an armistice if the Communists are sincere in their desire for peace."

"We could sign a truce tomorrow in good faith with the Communists," said Assistant Secretary of State Walter Robertson on his arrival at McChord Field, Wash.

Robertson is on his way to Washington, D. C., to report personally to President Eisenhower on his more than two weeks of conferences aimed at winning Rhee over to a truce.

Believes Truce Near

Eisenhower himself was pictured by U. S. congressional leaders in Washington as believing a Korea truce is near. The lawmakers said the President and his military advisers regard the big Communist attack as an at-

Party Leaders Favor Mayor Term of 4 Years

An increase in the terms of the mayor, alderman-at-large and aldermen from two to four years was proposed last night by N. LeVan Haver, chairman of the Republican City Committee, and Thomas J. Plunket, chairman of the Ulster County Democratic Committee.

In letters to Common Council the two Kingston attorneys suggested passage of a local law which would be submitted to the voters at the next general election in November.

Alderman-at-Large Joseph Kelly referred the communications to the laws and rules committee for study and report.

Haver pointed out that for some time it had seemed advisable to him to elect the mayor, alderman-at-large and members of council for four rather than two years and that most cities in the state have four-year terms.

He said he didn't think it was necessary to "go into any detail as to the desirability of effecting such a change for the best interests of city government.

"If the members of the Common Council agree, I would request that a local law be drafted and adopted providing that the term of the mayor, alderman-at-large and aldermen elected in the year 1955 be elected to serve for a four year term. From an examination of the statute it would seem that it would not be possible to accomplish this purpose this year without a special election."

Plunket said it had been his belief for some time that the people of the city would benefit if the terms of office were increased from two to four years and he suggested the advisability of passing a local law to that effect and "placing the matter before the people for a referendum vote at the coming election."

Alderman-at-Large Kelly explained to council that the need for spotters to assist in manning the local observation post on top of the Governor Clinton Hotel was urgent.

He appealed to members of council to take what action they could in their respective wards to encourage residents, both men and women, to volunteer for watches during the week. Each of these watches is only for two hours and additional personnel is essential if the local post is to continue manning its watch around the clock.

Kelly said the local post, headed by Mrs. Dewey Logan, had been commended recently by the U. S. Air Force for its success in manning the post continuously around the clock for the past year and that Air Force representatives had advised Mrs. Logan that the continuous watch was of deepest importance to the national security.

He suggested to the aldermen that committees be formed in each ward to provide stimulus and aid to the local observation post and asked the aldermen to get in touch with Mrs. Logan to inquire what could best be done to assist her.

Alderman James Ryan of the Tenth Ward called attention to the fact that a number of young people in the city, many of them home from college, were driving cars in the city and that he had received some complaints from residents of his ward that some of the driving was reckless and endangered the lives of children. Kelly said Ryan's suggestion

Will Be Used For Old Folk Who Are Ill

Resolution Calls Move in Best Interests of Public—to Execute Deed and Survey

Common Council last night voted to transfer the former city home on Flatbush avenue to the county for use as a home for the aged chronically ill.

The resolution, adopted unanimously, provides that the transfer be made for the sum of $1.

Request for the transfer was made recently by the Ulster County Board of Supervisors, and by Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, who sent a letter to the counsel at its meeting July 7 recommending the proposition.

Reports Are Favorable

At the meeting July 7, Alderman-at-Large Joseph Kelly referred the proposition to the corporation counsel, the finance, ways and means committee and the laws and rules committee for study and report at the recessed meeting which was held last night. Both committees reported favorably.

The resolution adopted last night pointed out that the city home property had been "idle and vacant" since the Kingston Welfare District had been dissolved and the county had taken over the administration of public welfare in both the city and county.

For Best Public Interest

It appears to be in the best public interest to transfer the property to the county, the resolution stated, since such use would effect substantial savings to the county and city and would "provide better and more efficient care and service for the chronically ill."

The mayor was authorized to execute a deed to the county and the city engineer to prepare a survey description of the parcel of land on which the home is located.

Alderman Martin W. Golden of the Ninth Ward, chairman of the finance, ways and means committee, speaking in favor of the resolution, pointed out that his committee had been "wholeheartedly" in favor of the resolution for several reasons.

Deterioration Cited

He explained that the property was deteriorating and falling apart and that the city had the expense of maintaining and heating it and paying a watchman. The important thing, however, he pointed out, was that use of the home by the county would provide more adequate care for the aged chronically ill.

He called attention to the fact that many of the aged chronically ill were scattered through the county making it difficult to reach them with effective medical care but that "constant and efficient" medical care could be provided if the aged ill were located in one building.

State Aid to Come

He said a considerable part of the cost of operation would be offset by state aid and the county contemplated the expenditure of a large sum of money to renovate the property.

In conclusion he stated that the home, if operated by the county, would be "one of the better medical institutions" in this area for care of the aged chronically ill.

Estimated cost of renovation of the home has been placed at $250,000. The Ulster County Board of Supervisors has secured Architect Harry Halverson to prepare preliminary plans and specifications.

A new state law provides 50-50 share of the cost of operation by the state for treatment of chronically ill persons who are receiving public assistance.

Campbell Is Named

Washington, July 15 (AP)—Joseph Campbell, treasurer of Columbia University in New York city, was named to the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) yesterday by President Eisenhower, who formerly headed Columbia. It was Eisenhower's second appointment to the five-man commission. He has named Lewis Strauss of New York to be chairman, succeeding Gordon Dean. Campbell was named to a term expiring June 30, 1955, from which Thomas K. Glennan has resigned. During World War 2, Campbell received an award for services in connection with development of the atomic bomb.

ROKs, Artillery And Weather Stall Offensive of Reds

Taylor Says Front Line Stabilized; Big Gains Hammered Out by Foe

Seoul, July 15 (AP)—The greatest Communist offensive in more than two years of Korean fighting stalled at least temporarily today in the face of drenching rain, stubborn South Korean resistance and blistering allied artillery fire.

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Eighth Army commander, visited the east-central front for the second straight day and announced that the line had been "stabilized."

But an uneasy lull hung over the 20-mile front where more than 80,000 Reds rolled up solid gains in a big-scale two-day onslaught.

Weary ROK troops bolstered their defenses and waited for darkness—and possible new assaults.

Several small attacks by Red companies (about 150 men each) were reported late Wednesday afternoon east of Kumhwa in the embattled sector, but there was no major Communist activity before dark, Eighth Army said.

Two MIGs Downed

In the air, American Sabre jets shot down two MIGs, with Maj. James Jabara bagging his 15th Russian-built jet to boost himself to within one of the all-time record of 16.

The Wichita, Kan., sharpshooter, America's first jet ace, bagged his 15th during a late afternoon sweep deep in North Korea.

Heavier than usual military censorship in Seoul and Tokyo covered news reports describing the depth of the Red penetration.

U. S. censors operated under instructions to blue pencil news reports of information considered of value to the Reds.

Associated Press correspondents Robert Gibson and Forrest Edwards reported from the front that there was little action Tuesday night and Wednesday morning.

Heavy rain lashed troops, softened roads and sent flash floods down mountain ravines.

By afternoon, however, the rains ended.

Lull Is Unusual

The sharp lull was unusual in a Chinese offensive. It remained to be seen whether it was a temporary delay due to the soggy weather, a genuine lack of Chinese power, or that the Reds were satisfied with their gains so far.

The size of the gains were restricted information by order of the Eighth Army. But while solid, they did not seem in themselves any real peril to the allied position, frontline reports said.

Red infiltration units were reported as much as four miles behind the allied main line.

Light spotter planes that flew through rain and low clouds reported the Reds were shuttling artillery, supplies and fresh in-

Woman, 28, Dies At Spring Lake

Po'keepsie Resident Said to Have Little Water in Her Lungs

Virginia D. Wilson, 28, of 591 Main street, Poughkeepsie, was pronounced dead on arrival at Kingston Hospital yesterday afternoon after she was the apparent victim of a sudden illness while swimming at Spring Lake.

Linda Lawrence, 13, granddaughter of Police Chief Raymond Van Buren, of 78 Andrew street, and Hyla Alcon, 12, of 25 Brewster street, struggled in the water to save the young woman as she went down near a float, but she slipped from their grip and was finally brought ashore by Paul Donahue, of 184 Lucas avenue, a lifeguard at the lake a few minutes after she had submerged.

Inhalator Is Used

Local firemen, the emergency crew of Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp., and others, worked at artificial respiration and used an inhalator for about an hour, but it developed that the young woman had little if any water in the lungs.

One who assisted expertly with artificial respiration was Jane Marcus, 18, of Camp Tricky Point, town of Saugerties. The others were Deputy Fire Chief George Matthews, Fireman Clayton Stalter, and Clarence Wolfersteig and Clayton Lampman, of the Central Hudson, and Robert Mains and Charles Schulenberg, of the Schultz Ambulance Service. Another girl who assisted withheld her name.

The sheriff's office was notified

British Strangler, Who Killed Seven Women, Is Hanged in Midst of Guilt Controversy

London, July 15 (AP)—John Reginald Halliday Christie, the Notting Hill sex strangler who confessed he killed seven women but might have murdered more, was hanged today in Pentonville prison.

Even as he died, a controversy raged over whether the mild-appearing transport worker and wartime auxiliary cop was guilty of a baby's murder for which another man was hanged three years ago.

The case of the insanity-pleading wholesaler in killing, who walled up his victim's bodies in his apartment or buried them in his garden, had shocked Britain as no other murder spree since Jack the Ripper's.

The sentence was carried out by Albert Pierrepont, England's chief hangman, who keeps a Yorkshire pub called "Help the Poor Struggler" when not at his official duties.

Pierrepont placed the noose with its attached black hood over Christie's head just before the scheduled hour, 9 a. m. (3 a. m., EST). Then the trap was sprung with a crash that echoed throughout the grim prison.

A crowd of about 200 persons, including many schoolchildren, were gathered outside the prison gate. A truckloan of police waited near the gate and the police patrol in nearby Caledonian road had been increased, but there was no disturbance.

At the posting of the execution notice on the gate, the crowd surged forward, many laughing nervously and making jokes. "Take it easy, he's not cold yet," one man shouted. "There's nothing to see. You won't see Christie," another called.

Within five minutes the police moved the crowd away from the gate and most people melted in among those hurrying along the road to their jobs.

The continuing controversy hinged on Christie's confession at his trial that he strangled a neighbor's wife three years ago. The neighbor, Timothy Evans, was accused of killing his wife and baby daughter but was convicted and hanged only for the infant's death. Christie's confession aroused speculation that Christie also killed the baby, though he denied this.

Queen's Counsel John Scott Henderson, after a secret government inquiry, announced yesterday that Christie had lied in his confession and that he did not kill Mrs. Evans.

Christie was sentenced June 25 after a five-day trial in Old Bailey Court, he had testified that his ghoulish kills over the 10-year period—most of them streetwalkers throttled or suffocated in the throes of illicit love—might have totaled more than seven women but he wasn't sure.

The 55-year-old man was tried, however, only for the murder of his wife, Ethel, 54, whose decaying body was found beneath the parlor floor in their dingy Notting Hill tenement apartment.

Meanest Thief Steals Cans With Palsy, Sclerosis Funds

Four cerebral palsy donation cans and one for multiple sclerosis were reported missing yesterday afternoon from locations in the central part of the city.

Their loss was discovered by a group of women picking them up for the Cerebral Palsy Campaign Fund.

Mrs. Nathan Friedman of 240 Washington avenue told The Freeman that only one of the cans was recovered. It was found in the men's room of the Trailways Bus Depot at Broadway and Pine Grove avenue opened jaggedly with a beer can opener. A dollar bill was still stuck inside the can, apparently missed by the thief when he emptied the container of its coins.

The container found in the men's room was one which had been placed in the Trailways Depot, Mrs. Friedman said.

Other cerebral palsy cans were missing from Central Pharmacy, 478 Broadway, Central Lunch, 486 Broadway, and Chez Emile Restaurant, 470 Broadway.

The multiple sclerosis container had been located in the Central Pharmacy.

Mrs. Friedman, who reported the theft to police, said she and the women collecting the cans felt "terrible" about the loss, that they found it hard to understand how anyone could steal a handful of money destined for the assistance of crippled children.

"It is absolutely pathetic," she said. She explained that the campaign had been concluded some weeks ago but that the cans had been left out a little longer than had been anticipated.

Officer Francis J. Fagan, acting desk sergeant at police headquarters, on duty when Mrs. Friedman brought in the mutilated can and made her report, entered the notation on the police blotter with the following heading, in bold letters, above it: "The Meanest Thief."

The way East Berliners snapped up the western food at less than a fifth the normal price proved the emptiness of Moscow's claims — and of East Berlin's grocery stores.

Milk, Potatoes Go

More than 1,000 quarts of milk and 11 tons of potatoes were distributed before noon today. Yesterday's output was 1,820 quarts of milk, 2,200 pounds of cherries and 11,200 oranges.

Willy Kressmann, the West Berlin borough mayor who organized the market, said he would try to keep it open again tomorrow "if we can raise the money."

The whole project was one of warm hearted charity, private contributions and public relief funds. The food offered by the United States waited for Soviet permission to cross the border.

Communist propagandists worked desperately to appease the east Germans incensed by the rejection of American food. The Red news agency ADN claimed that nearly 3,000 freight cars of food from the Soviet Union have been sent to East Germany since July 1, with Poland contributing 84 carloads of meat and fish, China 35 carloads of rice, and Albania 6 cars of tobacco.

Reports of food shortages still continued to appear in East German newspapers, however.

Will Quit Post

Athens, Greece, July 15 (AP)—A U. S. embassy source said today Ambassador John E. Peurifoy will quit his post here Aug. 9 and return to Washington for reassignment. The source said Cavendish Cannon, former ambassador to Portugal, has been named tentatively as Peurifoy's successor.

Showdown Might Break Truce Talks

Secret Session Is Due At Panmunjom—Reds Claim UN Walked Out of Parley

Panmunjom, July 15 (AP)—An authoritative source said tonight a showdown is coming between allied and Communist truce negotiators tomorrow in a secret session which will "make or break the talks."

"There is a very distinct possibility of another breakdown in the talks," the source said. He added that the veil of secrecy will be lifted from the negotiations if there is a breakdown.

There were strong indications the showdown would come over Red demands for the recapture of non-Communist Korean prisoners freed last month and iron-clad guarantees from the UN that South Korea would honor a truce.

The source said the meeting will bring a "showdown on worsening prospects for a quick armistice."

'Will Make or Break'

"The meeting will make or break the talks," he said. "Tomorrow will be the showdown."

The source, who could not be identified, gave his estimate of the truce situation after the Chinese Communist radio claimed the UN command negotiators "walked out" of Wednesday's truce meeting.

But Peiping radio made it clear there would be another meeting at the customary hour of 11 a. m. on Thursday (9 p. m. EST Wednesday).

The Peiping radio said:

"The other side unilaterally declared a recess and walked out of the meetings."

A UN command spokesman said only: "No comment. We never comment on Communist propaganda broadcasts."

The negotiators met for 21 minutes Wednesday and the allied delegation announced afterward that another session would be held at 11 a. m. Thursday (9 p. m. EST Wednesday).

Allies Are Pessimistic

Allied officers here were openly pessimistic over chances of an early armistice. They said the big Communist attack on the east-central front indicates the Reds do not plan to sign a truce soon.

On the other hand, President Eisenhower's special truce emissary said as he landed in the U. S. Tuesday that the agreement he reached with President Syngman Rhee "should assure the signing of an armistice if the Communists are sincere in their desire for peace."

"We could sign a truce tomorrow in good faith with the Communists," said Assistant Secretary of State Walter Robertson on his arrival at McChord Field, Wash.

Robertson is on his way to Washington, D. C., to report personally to President Eisenhower on his more than two weeks of conferences aimed at winning Rhee over to a truce.

Believes Truce Near

Eisenhower himself was pictured by U. S. congressional leaders in Washington as believing a Korea truce is near. The lawmakers said the President and his military advisers regard the big Communist attack as an at-

Party Leaders Favor Mayor Term of 4 Years

An increase in the terms of the mayor, alderman-at-large and aldermen from two to four years was proposed last night by N. LeVan Haver, chairman of the Republican City Committee, and Thomas J. Plunket, chairman of the Ulster County Democratic Committee.

In letters to Common Council the two Kingston attorneys suggested passage of a local law which would be submitted to the voters at the next general election in November.

Alderman-at-Large Joseph Kelly referred the communications to the laws and rules committee for study and report.

Haver pointed out that for some time it had seemed advisable to him to elect the mayor, alderman-at-large and members of council for four rather than two years and that most cities in the state have four-year terms.

He said he didn't think it was necessary to "go into any detail as to the desirability of effecting such a change for the best interests of city government.

"If the members of the Common Council agree, I would request that a local law be drafted and adopted providing that the term of the mayor, alderman-at-large and aldermen elected in the year 1955 be elected to serve for a four year term. From an examination of the statute it would seem that it would not be possible to accomplish this purpose this year without a special election."

Plunket said it had been his belief for some time that the people of the city would benefit if the terms of office were increased from two to four years and he suggested the advisability of passing a local law to that effect and "placing the matter before the people for a referendum vote at the coming election."

Alderman-at-Large Kelly explained to council that the need for spotters to assist in manning the local observation post on top of the Governor Clinton Hotel was urgent.

He appealed to members of council to take what action they could in their respective wards to encourage residents, both men and women, to volunteer for watches during the week. Each of these watches is only for two hours and additional personnel is essential if the local post is to continue manning its watch around the clock.

Kelly said the local post, headed by Mrs. Dewey Logan, had been commended recently by the U. S. Air Force for its success in manning the post continuously around the clock for the past year and that Air Force representatives had advised Mrs. Logan that the continuous watch was of deepest importance to the national security.

He suggested to the aldermen that committees be formed in each ward to provide stimulus and aid to the local observation post and asked the aldermen to get in touch with Mrs. Logan to inquire what could best be done to assist her.

Alderman James Ryan of the Tenth Ward called attention to the fact that a number of young people in the city, many of them home from college, were driving cars in the city and that he had received some complaints from residents of his ward that some of the driving was reckless and endangered the lives of children. Kelly said Ryan's suggestion

Taylor Says Front Line Stabilized; Big Gains Hammered Out by Foe

Seoul, July 15 (AP)—The greatest Communist offensive in more than two years of Korean fighting stalled at least temporarily today in the face of drenching rain, stubborn South Korean resistance and blistering allied artillery fire.

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Eighth Army commander, visited the east-central front for the second straight day and announced that the line had been "stabilized."

But an uneasy lull hung over the 20-mile front where more than 80,000 Reds rolled up solid gains in a big-scale two-day onslaught.

Weary ROK troops bolstered their defenses and waited for darkness—and possible new assaults.

Several small attacks by Red companies (about 150 men each) were reported late Wednesday afternoon east of Kumhwa in the embattled sector, but there was no major Communist activity before dark, Eighth Army said.

Two MIGs Downed

In the air, American Sabre jets shot down two MIGs, with Maj. James Jabara bagging his 15th Russian-built jet to boost himself to within one of the all-time record of 16.

The Wichita, Kan., sharpshooter, America's first jet ace, bagged his 15th during a late afternoon sweep deep in North Korea.

Heavier than usual military censorship in Seoul and Tokyo covered news reports describing the depth of the Red penetration.

U. S. censors operated under instructions to blue pencil news reports of information considered of value to the Reds.

Associated Press correspondents Robert Gibson and Forrest Edwards reported from the front that there was little action Tuesday night and Wednesday morning.

Heavy rain lashed troops, softened roads and sent flash floods down mountain ravines.

By afternoon, however, the rains ended.

Lull Is Unusual

The sharp lull was unusual in a Chinese offensive. It remained to be seen whether it was a temporary delay due to the soggy weather, a genuine lack of Chinese power, or that the Reds were satisfied with their gains so far.

The size of the gains were restricted information by order of the Eighth Army. But while solid, they did not seem in themselves any real peril to the allied position, frontline reports said.

Red infiltration units were reported as much as four miles behind the allied main line.

Light spotter planes that flew through rain and low clouds reported the Reds were shuttling artillery, supplies and fresh in-

More Than 25 Stores Agree To Close Saturday Afternoon

Action Would Cover Period from July 18 to Aug. 29 in City

A group of Kingston retail stores today announced they have reached a mutual agreement to close on Saturday afternoons during the summer.

The more than 25 stores in the group will open at 9 a. m., and close at 12:30 p. m., on Saturdays from July 18 through August 29, inclusive, according to the announcement.

The action was taken as the result of a canvass of stores by a group of merchants on Monday and Tuesday morning. It was taken independently of action by any of the city's business men's associations.

Other Hours Unchanged

Store hours for the remainder of the week, including the Friday night hours, will remain unchanged for those stores participating in the announcement.

The joint announcement on the Saturday afternoon closing was made by the following stores:

Gramer's Curtain Shop, Montgomery Ward and Company, J. C. Penney Co., Up-to-Date Co., Leventhal's, Goldman Style Shop, Richard Meyer Jeweler, Jewel Box, Flanagans', O'Reilly's uptown store, Sam Bernstein, E. Woman, 28, Dies At Spring Lake

Po'keepsie Resident Said to Have Little Water in Her Lungs

Virginia D. Wilson, 28, of 591 Main street, Poughkeepsie, was pronounced dead on arrival at Kingston Hospital yesterday afternoon after she was the apparent victim of a sudden illness while swimming at Spring Lake.

Linda Lawrence, 13, granddaughter of Police Chief Raymond Van Buren, of 78 Andrew street, and Hyla Alcon, 12, of 25 Brewster street, struggled in the water to save the young woman as she went down near a float, but she slipped from their grip and was finally brought ashore by Paul Donahue, of 184 Lucas avenue, a lifeguard at the lake a few minutes after she had submerged.

Inhalator Is Used

Local firemen, the emergency crew of Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp., and others, worked at artificial respiration and used an inhalator for about an hour, but it developed that the young woman had little if any water in the lungs.

One who assisted expertly with artificial respiration was Jane Marcus, 18, of Camp Tricky Point, town of Saugerties. The others were Deputy Fire Chief George Matthews, Fireman Clayton Stalter, and Clarence Wolfersteig and Clayton Lampman, of the Central Hudson, and Robert Mains and Charles Schulenberg, of the Schultz Ambulance Service. Another girl who assisted withheld her name.

The sheriff's office was notified

Meanest Thief Steals Cans With Palsy, Sclerosis Funds

Four cerebral palsy donation cans and one for multiple sclerosis were reported missing yesterday afternoon from locations in the central part of the city.

Their loss was discovered by a group of women picking them up for the Cerebral Palsy Campaign Fund.

Mrs. Nathan Friedman of 240 Washington avenue told The Freeman that only one of the cans was recovered. It was found in the men's room of the Trailways Bus Depot at Broadway and Pine Grove avenue opened jaggedly with a beer can opener. A dollar bill was still stuck inside the can, apparently missed by the thief when he emptied the container of its coins.

The container found in the men's room was one which had been placed in the Trailways Depot, Mrs. Friedman said.

Other cerebral palsy cans were missing from Central Pharmacy, 478 Broadway, Central Lunch, 486 Broadway, and Chez Emile Restaurant, 470 Broadway.

The multiple sclerosis container had been located in the Central Pharmacy.

Mrs. Friedman, who reported the theft to police, said she and the women collecting the cans felt "terrible" about the loss, that they found it hard to understand how anyone could steal a handful of money destined for the assistance of crippled children.

"It is absolutely pathetic," she said. She explained that the campaign had been concluded some weeks ago but that the cans had been left out a little longer than had been anticipated.

Officer Francis J. Fagan, acting desk sergeant at police headquarters, on duty when Mrs. Friedman brought in the mutilated can and made her report, entered the notation on the police blotter with the following heading, in bold letters, above it: "The Meanest Thief."

Will Be Used For Old Folk Who Are Ill

Resolution Calls Move in Best Interests of Public—to Execute Deed and Survey

Common Council last night voted to transfer the former city home on Flatbush avenue to the county for use as a home for the aged chronically ill.

The resolution, adopted unanimously, provides that the transfer be made for the sum of $1.

Request for the transfer was made recently by the Ulster County Board of Supervisors, and by Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, who sent a letter to the counsel at its meeting July 7 recommending the proposition.

Reports Are Favorable

At the meeting July 7, Alderman-at-Large Joseph Kelly referred the proposition to the corporation counsel, the finance, ways and means committee and the laws and rules committee for study and report at the recessed meeting which was held last night. Both committees reported favorably.

The resolution adopted last night pointed out that the city home property had been "idle and vacant" since the Kingston Welfare District had been dissolved and the county had taken over the administration of public welfare in both the city and county.

For Best Public Interest

It appears to be in the best public interest to transfer the property to the county, the resolution stated, since such use would effect substantial savings to the county and city and would "provide better and more efficient care and service for the chronically ill."

The mayor was authorized to execute a deed to the county and the city engineer to prepare a survey description of the parcel of land on which the home is located.

Alderman Martin W. Golden of the Ninth Ward, chairman of the finance, ways and means committee, speaking in favor of the resolution, pointed out that his committee had been "wholeheartedly" in favor of the resolution for several reasons.

Deterioration Cited

He explained that the property was deteriorating and falling apart and that the city had the expense of maintaining and heating it and paying a watchman. The important thing, however, he pointed out, was that use of the home by the county would provide more adequate care for the aged chronically ill.

He called attention to the fact that many of the aged chronically ill were scattered through the county making it difficult to reach them with effective medical care but that "constant and efficient" medical care could be provided if the aged ill were located in one building.

State Aid to Come

He said a considerable part of the cost of operation would be offset by state aid and the county contemplated the expenditure of a large sum of money to renovate the property.

In conclusion he stated that the home, if operated by the county, would be "one of the better medical institutions" in this area for care of the aged chronically ill.

Estimated cost of renovation of the home has been placed at $250,000. The Ulster County Board of Supervisors has secured Architect Harry Halverson to prepare preliminary plans and specifications.

A new state law provides 50-50 share of the cost of operation by the state for treatment of chronically ill persons who are receiving public assistance.

Campbell Is Named

Washington, July 15 (AP)—Joseph Campbell, treasurer of Columbia University in New York city, was named to the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) yesterday by President Eisenhower, who formerly headed Columbia. It was Eisenhower's second appointment to the five-man commission. He has named Lewis Strauss of New York to be chairman, succeeding Gordon Dean. Campbell was named to a term expiring June 30, 1955, from which Thomas K. Glennan has resigned. During World War 2, Campbell received an award for services in connection with development of the atomic bomb.

British Strangler, Who Killed Seven Women, Is Hanged in Midst of Guilt Controversy

London, July 15 (AP)—John Reginald Halliday Christie, the Notting Hill sex strangler who confessed he killed seven women but might have murdered more, was hanged today in Pentonville prison.

Even as he died, a controversy raged over whether the mild-appearing transport worker and wartime auxiliary cop was guilty of a baby's murder for which another man was hanged three years ago.

The case of the insanity-pleading wholesaler in killing, who walled up his victim's bodies in his apartment or buried them in his garden, had shocked Britain as no other murder spree since Jack the Ripper's.

The sentence was carried out by Albert Pierrepont, England's chief hangman, who keeps a Yorkshire pub called "Help the Poor Struggler" when not at his official duties.

Pierrepont placed the noose with its attached black hood over Christie's head just before the scheduled hour, 9 a. m. (3 a. m., EST). Then the trap was sprung with a crash that echoed throughout the grim prison.

A crowd of about 200 persons, including many schoolchildren, were gathered outside the prison gate. A truckloan of police waited near the gate and the police patrol in nearby Caledonian road had been increased, but there was no disturbance.

At the posting of the execution notice on the gate, the crowd surged forward, many laughing nervously and making jokes. "Take it easy, he's not cold yet," one man shouted. "There's nothing to see. You won't see Christie," another called.

Within five minutes the police moved the crowd away from the gate and most people melted in among those hurrying along the road to their jobs.

The continuing controversy hinged on Christie's confession at his trial that he strangled a neighbor's wife three years ago. The neighbor, Timothy Evans, was accused of killing his wife and baby daughter but was convicted and hanged only for the infant's death. Christie's confession aroused speculation that Christie also killed the baby, though he denied this.

Queen's Counsel John Scott Henderson, after a secret government inquiry, announced yesterday that Christie had lied in his confession and that he did not kill Mrs. Evans.

Christie was sentenced June 25 after a five-day trial in Old Bailey Court, he had testified that his ghoulish kills over the 10-year period—most of them streetwalkers throttled or suffocated in the throes of illicit love—might have totaled more than seven women but he wasn't sure.

The 55-year-old man was tried, however, only for the murder of his wife, Ethel, 54, whose decaying body was found beneath the parlor floor in their dingy Notting Hill tenement apartment.

BREWERY FRESH, DOBLER BEER AND ALE TASTE BETTER

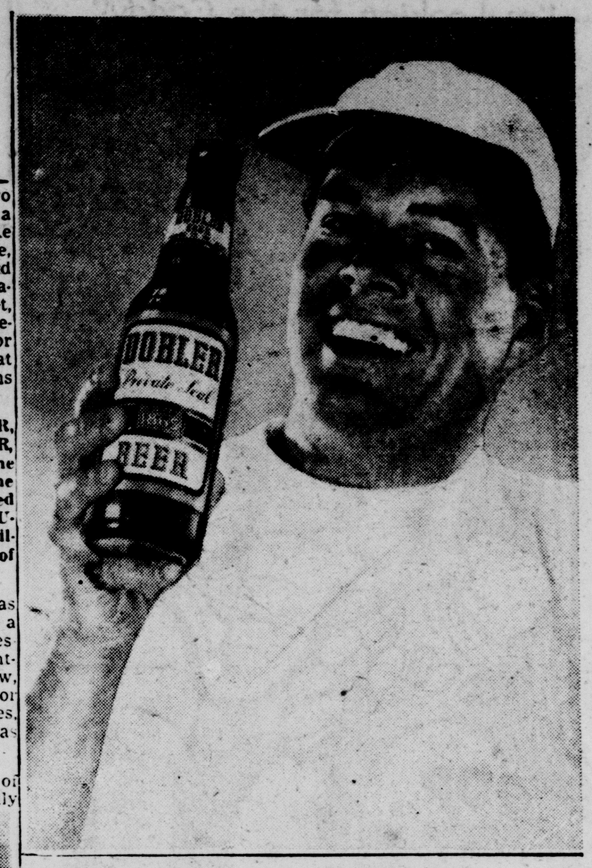

People everywhere are beginning to realize that beer does not age in the bottle. The fresher a beer is when the bottle is opened the better.

A very delicate product, beer requires care in marketing. Extra handling, storing beer for considerable lengths of time, subjecting it to variations in temperatures has an injurious effect on the product. Beer shipped long distances, stored for long periods of time just cannot be as good as when it left the brewery.

A healthful, invigorating beverage, beer is enjoyed by millions, [illegible] to be at its best it must be fresh; to be fresh it must be brewed locally. Dobler Beer and Ale are outstanding products of brewers' skill, coupled with choice ingredients, one of the most ideal waters for brewing in the country, the finest, cleanest brewing equipment money can buy and exceeding care can maintain.

It makes good sense to buy the products of a local brewery. In addition to the employment they create and the state taxes they pay, the consumer is assured a fresher product, properly aged by modern breweries, shipped and sold at the peak of its perfection.

Next time you buy beer, buy Dobler Beer or Ale. They are brewed right, come to you at their perfect best.

Taste it.

Over the years, brewing has been a household function, a trade, an art, a coveted profession, a source of revenue granted by rulers to a privileged few, such as the monasteries or feudal lords of the Middle Ages, and its present day stature as a modern industry.

Many forms of beer, one of which is mead, are frequently mentioned in Nordic folklore. The Greeks called it zythos, the Romans considered it a luxury and, of course, had a word for it, cerevisia.

Kiu, a beer-like drink, was enjoyed by Chinese, as far back as the twenty-third century, B.C. A recent translation of a cuneiform clay tablet, found in ancient Nineveh, describes Noah's preparations for the flood and indicates that beer was among the provisions on the Ark.

The beginnings of the brewing of beer date back to the earliest agricultural activities of man. Some of the oldest historical records, excavated in the valleys of the Euphrates and the Nile, sites of two great, ancient civilizations, are concerned with brewing. They give the details of buying and selling grain for brewing purposes; they depict the tools and implements of the malting and brewing trade, and they convey formulas and recipes for beermaking.

MOSCOW'S GOAL NOT CHANGED

Some might see in the fall from power of Russia's No. 2 man an event which could affect the world situation. But most indications are that they would be seeing something that just isn't there.

Rather, there is considerable evidence that the downfall of Lavrenti Beria, Russia's deputy premier and head of the secret police, is purely an internal matter.

Experts in the field of international politics see small chance that the circumstances surrounding Beria's case are such as to affect Russian external policy in Korea or Europe.

A tip-off on what very possibly may be the principal case against Beria is to be found in the fifth of six charges against him as listed in Pravda, official Communist Party newspaper: "Attempting to turn the Ministry of Interior into a privately dominated force."

That ties in with recent reports from Europe that Beria had been craftily increasing his power since Stalin's death. Only the day before the announcement of Beria's fall, NEA Correspondent Leon Dennen reported. "The chief of Russia's secret police is inching towards the seizure of power in the Kremlin."

That reflects the old Kremlin tradition that if you plan to wield the axe, wield it fast, before you get it yourself.

The possibility has also been cited that Beria, as head of the secret police, was made the fall guy for the recent uprisings against Russia in East Germany and other parts of Eastern Europe.

And there's the possibility that Premier Malenkov is sacrificing Beria as a sop to the Russian people, who both hated and feared the police chief.

Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia said in an interview only a few days before Beria's fall that while big policy changes were undoubtedly going on inside Russia, there was no reason to think she had changed her "basic aims."

The President's Committee on International Information Activities reported to Mr. Eisenhower July 8 that there was "no reliable evidence that changes in the Soviet regime and in Soviet tactics involve any change in the basic Soviet objective of a Communist world controlled by the Kremlin."

Thus the facts at hand would indicate that while Russia is having her troubles they do not necessarily in this case involve the outside world. In fact, they probably don't.

Now Moscow claims that the first harvesting combine was invented by Andrey Valasenko in 1868. It probably couldn't be used until a few years later when some other Russian invented crops.

NOT SO SIMPLE

Why do people patronize one store and pass right by the doors of another store?

The head of an association which represents food chains gave a general answer to that question in these words: "People like to do business with people they like. It is almost as simple as that—but the processes by which you get people to like you may not be simple. Public opinion is the combination of many likes and dislikes, many attitudes, many acts. Public opinion determines where people spend their money day after day; public opinion influences what stores will be profitable, what stores will fail."

Different people, obviously want and seek different kinds of goods, different kinds of services, different attractions of many sorts. Back of all the promotional and public relations activities of the merchant, from advertising to improved employe training, is the desire to attract as many people into his store as possible—in other words, to make people like him. And that will always be true so long as we have a free market and open competition.

We intend to tell the next person who informs us that "it isn't the heat it's the humidty" to go to that place where there is no doubt that the heat exceeds the humidity.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

INSIDE RUSSIA

As word seeps through the Iron Curtain, the difference of view which is shaking the Soviet world is between Malenkov and Molotov. Beria is the first of the Troika to go. Maybe he needs a fair trial, but he will not have that. Who will be next to go? Stalin played it that way after Lenin's death when he used Kamenev and Zinoviev against Trotzky while he sat back to await the destruction of all three.

The issues involved in the quarrel are not clear but whatever they are, they are pawns in the struggle for the first place in the succession to Stalin's power. It would appear that Molotov, having had experience in foreign relations, is moving toward the unification of Germany on a basis more satisfactory to the Western Powers. Malenkov's view seems to be that the Western Powers do not matter, but that the Communist Parties must be preserved in all countries. If concessions are made to the Western Powers, which imperil the European Communist Parties, the bulwarks of the defense of Soviet Russia will be imperilled.

The quarrel reminds me of that between Stalin and Trotzky over the question as to whether Socialism can succeed in one country. This type of ideological warfare is a device to line up supporters behind the contenders. In the end, Stalin exiled Trotzky and ultimately had him murdered. Did that prove Stalin ideologically right? From a Marxist standpoint it did because Stalin survived. In a system in which those are fittest who survive, the test of correctness can only be survival.

Molotov is a heavy-minded, clerkish type of bureaucrat who has managed to survive all the inner quarrels in the Kremlin. He and Kaganovitch are the only old Bolsheviks who have outlived the purges. They not only continued to live but both have remained in high office. Molotov is one of the Troika (Trio) who succeeded Stalin; Kaganovitch is in the Presidium.

Compared to these two, such men as Malenkov and Beria are babies, both in years and experience. Yet, whereas Molotov has had long tenure, Malenkov and Beria were personally trained by Stalin, who was a man of singular political astuteness, whose rise to power was marked by few false steps. He could be subservient almost to fawning. He could withdraw from a situation so that others might think their day had come. He could kill with the swiftness of a panther.

Molotov was never more than a servant to Stalin, but Malenkov and Beria were Stalin's pupils. The difference will be clear to anyone who studies the art of revolution and empire-building.

My guess is that the next step for real trouble will not be in Germany but in Japan. Whoever is strongest in the Kremlin needs some kind of a success, something to prove that his judgment is correct, his initiative effective, and his maneuvers successful. Germany is a very complicated situation and difficult to work out because of French and American suspicions of British policy. The failure of the Bermuda conference must have been a great disappointment to the Kremlin.

Japan is another story. The Japanese are hungry for Asiatic trade. They want to trade with Manchuria and China. They want to do business in Harbin, Mukden, Dairen, Shanghai, Hankow, Tientsin, Canton. These places are all held by the Chinese Communists. They would also like to trade in Southeast Asia, from Hongkong to Colombo, but the British want that trade for themselves.

This issue is going to come to a head sooner than we like and again the United States will be in the middle between British policy and our support of some Asiatic country. The Eisenhower Administration has never yet been able to meet such a situation head on. It seeks a "middle-of-the-road" answer, something that will please everybody and make a gay world. There are no such answers, with the result that all sides become violently angry with us. Then the Russians step in with some tricky solution like the Indian truce scheme for Korea.

All this is part of the inner fight in the Kremlin. Each side, the Malenkov side and the Molotov side, needs a big success to knock off the adversary. And there is some hope that the United States might make the false step that will provide the means to that success. So, they guess on, even as we do.

That Body of Yours

TREATMENT OF HEAT EXHAUSTION

Even as a boy I was not surprised that native tribes worshipped the sun as they recognized it as a necessity to man and to all animals. Physicians recognize the value of the sun, and its heat in healing strengthening the sick.

However, physicians and most men and women know that if they get too much sun it can cause severe burns and poisoning of the skin which poison absorbed into the blood vessels can cause serious illness or even death.

However, even where the sun does not blaze down on the individual but causes excessive heat of the atmosphere, this heat, even in a shaded place, can cause extreme exhaustion—heat exhaustion.

In "American Practitioner and Digest of Treatment," Philadelphia, Dr. J. A. Meerloo states that during the war he frequently saw heat exhaustion associated with anxiety and nervousness and a combination of ergotamine and caffeine was found helpful in these cases. "The immediate symptomatic effect was so gratifying that the patients spoke of wonder pills." The preparation used contains 1 mg. of ergotamine tartrate and 100 mg. of caffeine.

Caffeine is effective in heat exhaustion and has been used as a stimulant. It is a powerful central nervous system stimulant. Ergotamine tartrate acts on the involuntary (not under control of the will) smooth muscles. It constricts or partly closes the small blood vessels, thus producing an increase in the blood pressure. Dr. Meerloo used this treatment since the war. He found that these two drugs were well tolerated if given in doses of 1 to 2 tablets, but he warns that it should not be prescribed in cases of peripheral vascular disease (disease of the blood vessels supplying the outer parts of the body and skin).

While the caffeine and ergotamine tartrate in this dosage gave relief of symptoms, Dr. Meerloo states that the other measures, such as rest, fluid intake and additional salt intake, should be used in addition to the above drugs. Thus, usual treatment of heat exhaustion is removal of the patient from influence of excessive heat. He should be placed in a bed in a cool, well-ventilated room with clothing loosened to aid the breathing. Heat is usually applied to the feet. If he is able to swallow, he may be given hot coffee or a quarter teaspoon of spirits of camphor in water.

The treatment of sunstroke (not heat exhaustion) requires removal to a cool room and cold applications.

Anemia (thin blood) may be of two types. One is simple but the other dangerous. Edson's Washington News Notebook

Washington—(NEA)—Behind the recent meeting between United Mine Workers' President John L. Lewis and United Steelworkers' President David J. McDonald is some now-forgotten union history that sheds much light on current rumors of labor organization mergers.

The Lewis-McDonald meeting does not point to any organic merger of the coal and steel unions, as has been surmised. But it does indicate that in the future these two big and wealthy unions will be found working for common objectives.

It was John L. Lewis who fathered the formation of the big industrial unions, as distinguished from the older craft unions, back in the 1930's. Lewis was then an AF of L official and his miners' union was in the federation.

The Steelworkers' Organizing Committee was set up in 1935. Lewis' first big drive was to unionize the steel industry. He spent over two and a half million dollars of United Mine Worker's money in that effort, and he succeeded.

Lewis' lieutenant in his endeavor was the late Philip Murray. At that time he was a UMW vice-president. He became president of the United Steelworkers. Murray's secretary at the time was Dave McDonald. He became secretary-treasurer of the new union. Both Murray and McDonald worked under Lewis' direction.

Then came the great schisms. In 1938 Lewis pulled out of the American Federation of Labor to form the Congress of Industrial Organizations. Two years later the giant young industrial unions, like lusty sons suddenly grown too strong for their old man to manage, broke with Lewis.

John L. left his new CIO home to the boys and went back to live by himself in the coal mines. The boys never paid back the two and a half million dollars the old man had given them and he never sued them to get it back, but it was one of the causes of the split.

To Lewis, this sum has been an investment in a greatly strengthened American organized labor movement. He has unquestionably wanted to collect on it. But twice in recent years when his ungrateful offspring have been in trouble, Lewis has offered to go to their financial assistance.

In 1949 when both coal and steel unions were on strike, Lewis proposed that the UMW and nine of the bigger AF of L unions each contribute $250,000 for another two and a half million dollar fund to support the steelworkers in their fight for pensions.

Murray replied that such a fund was a good idea, but that it should be set up for any union in trouble, and not just the steelworkers. The AF of L took no action. Then Murray made his settlement with the steel companies and the idea was dropped.

In 1952, during the big 57-day steel strike, Lewis made Murray another offer of help. Murray replied that any help would be welcome.

The mine workers union then set up a million dollar fund in a Washington bank. The steelworkers union was given authority to draw on the fund as needed. Murray didn't have to draw on it before he settled his strike. But he got full psychological backing and the feeling of security that it provided.

Lewis-Murray Split Never Settled

In spite of this support which Lewis gave Murray, the split between them appeared to be complete and the two men never buried the hatchet. But when Murray died and Dave McDonald became president of the steelworkers union, it provided Lewis with a new opportunity for reunion.

Loyal to Murray, McDonald had not seen and had not spoken to Lewis, except at government tables, during Murray's life. But after his death, when Lewis suggested a meeting, McDonald accepted readily.

Lewis' feteling is that coal and steel unions are naturally related. The two unions bargain with the same companies on many contracts. It is to the advantage of each that they work together.

To the employers in coal and steel industries, the alliance of Lewis and McDonald serves notice that their two unions will work together in presenting future demands.

This may be, moreover, a new trend in labor relations. The series of no-raiding agretements now being concluded between A. F. of L. and C. I. O. unions is another symptom.

Thwarted in their political ambitions last year and further set back by the inability of the Eisenhower administration to reach any agretemnt on revision of the Taft-Hartley Act, it is only natural to find union labor organizations drawing closer together for mutual protection.

Anti-Red Is Fired Summarily, While One Accused as Risk Gets Elaborate Protection

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, July 15—Far more important than whether a congressional committee staff investigator who is bitterly anti-Communist shall be summarily fired without a hearing, while the rights of anybody in the government accused of being a security risk are well protected by an elaborate system of review boards with hearings, is another issue now developing in the Senate. It is whether a minority group of a committee shall be able to resign and a minority party, by refusing to appoint members in their places, shall effectively block the majority operation of congressional committees.

A "sit down strike" against the majority by the minority in committees is something unprecedented in the history of Congress, and it could be destructive. If, for example, the majority party was confident it could uncover corruption in the executive branch of the government, it could be prevented from making such exposure by the simple refusal of minority members to serve on a congressional committee.

The issue has arisen in connection with the action of three Democrats on the subcommittee of the Senate committee on government operations — Senators McClellan of Arkansas, Symington of Missouri and Jackson of the State of Washington—who first voted to remove J. B. Matthews, former Methodist clergyman and staff investigator. When the latter quit anyhow, the three Democratic senators then voted against letting the chairman of the committee, Senator McCarthy, Republican of Wisconsin, choose the members of the operating staff. The Republican majority upheld the right of the chairman to select his aides.

Each committee can make its own decisions as to personnel of the staff, and, if it chooses by majority vote to delegate that authority to the chairman or to revoke it at any time, it can do so. To resign because a majority decide an issue of procedure differently from the viewpoint of the minority is to abandon the proper means of recourse—namely, an appeal to the full committee and, if necessary, to the Senate itself.

The Republicans as a minority party in previous sessions of Congress felt aggrieved at times when counsel not to their liking was chosen by the majority, as, for instance, in the case of the Tydings committee. But the Republicans took their medicine and didn't walk out. In fact, the Senate itself later on appointed Senator McCarran, a Democrat, to conduct a second investigation on the subject.

Another issue which grows out of the same controversy was raised by Senator Monroney, Democrat of Oklahoma, on the floor of the Senate when he uttered a broadside attack against committee investigations on the subject of internal security. His thesis was that the Federal Bureau of Investigation and its director, J. Edgar Hoover, could be relied on to take care of this problem without congressional inquiries.

In this, Senator Monroney is repeating the familiar line of the Democrats in the last presidential campaign, as taken by Adlai Stevenson—namely, that the entire job could be safely left to the FBI alone.

What Mr. Monroney overlooks is that Alger Hiss was caught, not by the FBI, but by testimony during a House Committee hearing, and that the Teapot Dome scandal during the Harding administration was uncovered by a Senate Investigating Committee headed by Senator Tom Walsh of Montana, Democrat. As for the FBI's attitude toward congressional inquiries, the best testimony comes from J. Edgar Hoover himself in a copyrighted interview in "U. S. News & World Report," published on August 11, 1950. In it the following exchange occurred:

"Q: Do you believe that public exposures through congressional committees, when properly safeguarded to avoid implication of innocent parties, could be helpful in drawing public attention to instances and episodes involving espionage and other Communist activity?

"Mr. Hoover: With the laws of libel and slander militantly used by subversives, exposures under oath, with safeguards to protect the innocent, are necessary. A private citizen or even a great metropolitan paper does not have the facilities to make the investigations. Hence, many exposures can be made only through an official investigating committee possessing the power of subpoena with persuasive facilities such as laws covering perjury and the power to cite for contempt."

It would be unfortunate if the Democrats attempted to make a partisan issue out of their refusal to serve on the subcommittee of the Senate Government Operations Committee. For partisanship works both ways—and some Republicans could soon be claiming that the real reason that the Democrats have been balking is that they are afraid of what may be uncovered in the future concerning some hitherto undisclosed activities of Communist sympathizers inside the Truman administration.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

I closed yesterday's discussion of the dismissal of J. B. Matthews, the greatest Red-baiter of them all, with a promise to summarize the triumphant editorial of Pat Scanlon, the editor of the Brooklyn Tablet, the best Catholic diocesan weekly in the country, reviewing his similar experience with a Communist penetration of the Catholic community. Matthews was forced out of his position as executive director of the so-called McCarthy committee, a job he accepted only at great personal sacrifice, not because his attack on Red and fellow-travelers in the clergy was false, but because it was all too true. Nobody dared challenge Matthews' statements in American Mercury.

Scanlon was in the same fix a few years ago. However, unlike the political and moral cowards who threw down Matthews, his superiors ignored the tempest. He recently won a sweet vindication.

Here is what Mr. Scanlon wrote in the Tablet for June 13, with a few elisions for economy of space, but with no distortion of meaning:

"The news article stating that Senator Jenner had evidence that a Communist party cell existed to infiltrate the Catholic Church makes interesting reading. A witness before the Senate Internal Security subcommittee, Harold King, a New York city public school teacher, who had been identified by other witnesses as a Communist, admitted he was a member of the 'Committee of Catholics on Human Rights.' When asked if he was a member of a Communist cell, the special purpose of which was to influence Catholic policy, he refused to answer on constitutional grounds.

"The Tablet some years back exposed this committee which was made up of a number of well-known Catholics. It was headed for a time by Senator James Murray, of Montana, and at another time by Supreme Court Justice Frank Murphy.

"The committee in 1939 started a monthly publication called the 'Voice for Human Rights.' The late Professor Emanuel Chapman was the executive director with King very important, but in the background."

Chapman was a convert to the Catholic faith.

"The first issue was ushered in with tremendous publicity, with 250,000 copies printed. Gene Tunney sold the first copy to Mayor La Guardia on the city hall steps. Leaders in church and state saluted it. Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt stated it recognized a great cause and she predicted success. It carried pictures of bishops, priests and laymen, denouncing 'anti-Semitism.' Nothing was said about anti-Christianity or the persecution of Catholics. Nazis were condemned in every paragraph. Not a murmur was uttered against communism.

"The following week the Tablet called the 'Voice' a preposterous fraud, meant to divide Catholics by making Father Coughlin a whipping-boy and using anti-Semitism to hide the crimes of communism. The executive board of the committee decided to take the Tablet to task and to have the 'Voice' circulated outside the churches in the Brooklyn diocese. The second issue was held up a month to do a job on us. A half-dozen articles, several from Catholic papers, scored us severely. But none met our criticism."

Scanlon hit them again, calling on Emanuel Chapman to condemn communism and anti-Christianity. Scanlon says he knew even then the financial backers of the "Voice."

Continuing he writes: "Dr. Francis McMahon of Notre Dame and several others in the next issue took up cudgels against us and with considerable bitterness. Nor did they face the question.

"Meanwhile the committee for human rights was completely unsuccessful in having the publication sold outside churches in this diocese. One more issue was printed and it folded up.

"In April of 1944, the committee was revived with the same cast of characters but without the 'Voice.' One of its big ventures was a money-raising public dinner held November 28, 1946. The annual Msgr. John A. Ryan Award for Human Rights was established. Auxiliary Bishop Bernard Shiel, of Chicago, and Phillip Murray were the recipients. Among the speakers was a well-known Communist and others who have since been revealed as champions of the Soviet. The following year, March 3, 1947, a similar dinner was held and the Ryan awards were given to Basil O'Connor and Archbishop Richard Cushing, who did not appear to accept the honor. Of the 800 present only a small proportion were Catholics. Senator Murray at this dinner took us to task. The Tab-

MOSCOW'S GOAL NOT CHANGED

Some might see in the fall from power of Russia's No. 2 man an event which could affect the world situation. But most indications are that they would be seeing something that just isn't there.

Rather, there is considerable evidence that the downfall of Lavrenti Beria, Russia's deputy premier and head of the secret police, is purely an internal matter.

Experts in the field of international politics see small chance that the circumstances surrounding Beria's case are such as to affect Russian external policy in Korea or Europe.

A tip-off on what very possibly may be the principal case against Beria is to be found in the fifth of six charges against him as listed in Pravda, official Communist Party newspaper: "Attempting to turn the Ministry of Interior into a privately dominated force."

That ties in with recent reports from Europe that Beria had been craftily increasing his power since Stalin's death. Only the day before the announcement of Beria's fall, NEA Correspondent Leon Dennen reported. "The chief of Russia's secret police is inching towards the seizure of power in the Kremlin."

That reflects the old Kremlin tradition that if you plan to wield the axe, wield it fast, before you get it yourself.

The possibility has also been cited that Beria, as head of the secret police, was made the fall guy for the recent uprisings against Russia in East Germany and other parts of Eastern Europe.

And there's the possibility that Premier Malenkov is sacrificing Beria as a sop to the Russian people, who both hated and feared the police chief.

Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia said in an interview only a few days before Beria's fall that while big policy changes were undoubtedly going on inside Russia, there was no reason to think she had changed her "basic aims."

The President's Committee on International Information Activities reported to Mr. Eisenhower July 8 that there was "no reliable evidence that changes in the Soviet regime and in Soviet tactics involve any change in the basic Soviet objective of a Communist world controlled by the Kremlin."

Thus the facts at hand would indicate that while Russia is having her troubles they do not necessarily in this case involve the outside world. In fact, they probably don't.

Now Moscow claims that the first harvesting combine was invented by Andrey Valasenko in 1868. It probably couldn't be used until a few years later when some other Russian invented crops.

NOT SO SIMPLE

Why do people patronize one store and pass right by the doors of another store?

The head of an association which represents food chains gave a general answer to that question in these words: "People like to do business with people they like. It is almost as simple as that—but the processes by which you get people to like you may not be simple. Public opinion is the combination of many likes and dislikes, many attitudes, many acts. Public opinion determines where people spend their money day after day; public opinion influences what stores will be profitable, what stores will fail."

Different people, obviously want and seek different kinds of goods, different kinds of services, different attractions of many sorts. Back of all the promotional and public relations activities of the merchant, from advertising to improved employe training, is the desire to attract as many people into his store as possible—in other words, to make people like him. And that will always be true so long as we have a free market and open competition.

We intend to tell the next person who informs us that "it isn't the heat it's the humidty" to go to that place where there is no doubt that the heat exceeds the humidity.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

INSIDE RUSSIA

As word seeps through the Iron Curtain, the difference of view which is shaking the Soviet world is between Malenkov and Molotov. Beria is the first of the Troika to go. Maybe he needs a fair trial, but he will not have that. Who will be next to go? Stalin played it that way after Lenin's death when he used Kamenev and Zinoviev against Trotzky while he sat back to await the destruction of all three.

The issues involved in the quarrel are not clear but whatever they are, they are pawns in the struggle for the first place in the succession to Stalin's power. It would appear that Molotov, having had experience in foreign relations, is moving toward the unification of Germany on a basis more satisfactory to the Western Powers. Malenkov's view seems to be that the Western Powers do not matter, but that the Communist Parties must be preserved in all countries. If concessions are made to the Western Powers, which imperil the European Communist Parties, the bulwarks of the defense of Soviet Russia will be imperilled.

The quarrel reminds me of that between Stalin and Trotzky over the question as to whether Socialism can succeed in one country. This type of ideological warfare is a device to line up supporters behind the contenders. In the end, Stalin exiled Trotzky and ultimately had him murdered. Did that prove Stalin ideologically right? From a Marxist standpoint it did because Stalin survived. In a system in which those are fittest who survive, the test of correctness can only be survival.

Molotov is a heavy-minded, clerkish type of bureaucrat who has managed to survive all the inner quarrels in the Kremlin. He and Kaganovitch are the only old Bolsheviks who have outlived the purges. They not only continued to live but both have remained in high office. Molotov is one of the Troika (Trio) who succeeded Stalin; Kaganovitch is in the Presidium.

Compared to these two, such men as Malenkov and Beria are babies, both in years and experience. Yet, whereas Molotov has had long tenure, Malenkov and Beria were personally trained by Stalin, who was a man of singular political astuteness, whose rise to power was marked by few false steps. He could be subservient almost to fawning. He could withdraw from a situation so that others might think their day had come. He could kill with the swiftness of a panther.

Molotov was never more than a servant to Stalin, but Malenkov and Beria were Stalin's pupils. The difference will be clear to anyone who studies the art of revolution and empire-building.

My guess is that the next step for real trouble will not be in Germany but in Japan. Whoever is strongest in the Kremlin needs some kind of a success, something to prove that his judgment is correct, his initiative effective, and his maneuvers successful. Germany is a very complicated situation and difficult to work out because of French and American suspicions of British policy. The failure of the Bermuda conference must have been a great disappointment to the Kremlin.

Japan is another story. The Japanese are hungry for Asiatic trade. They want to trade with Manchuria and China. They want to do business in Harbin, Mukden, Dairen, Shanghai, Hankow, Tientsin, Canton. These places are all held by the Chinese Communists. They would also like to trade in Southeast Asia, from Hongkong to Colombo, but the British want that trade for themselves.

This issue is going to come to a head sooner than we like and again the United States will be in the middle between British policy and our support of some Asiatic country. The Eisenhower Administration has never yet been able to meet such a situation head on. It seeks a "middle-of-the-road" answer, something that will please everybody and make a gay world. There are no such answers, with the result that all sides become violently angry with us. Then the Russians step in with some tricky solution like the Indian truce scheme for Korea.

All this is part of the inner fight in the Kremlin. Each side, the Malenkov side and the Molotov side, needs a big success to knock off the adversary. And there is some hope that the United States might make the false step that will provide the means to that success. So, they guess on, even as we do.

That Body of Yours

TREATMENT OF HEAT EXHAUSTION

Even as a boy I was not surprised that native tribes worshipped the sun as they recognized it as a necessity to man and to all animals. Physicians recognize the value of the sun, and its heat in healing strengthening the sick.

However, physicians and most men and women know that if they get too much sun it can cause severe burns and poisoning of the skin which poison absorbed into the blood vessels can cause serious illness or even death.

However, even where the sun does not blaze down on the individual but causes excessive heat of the atmosphere, this heat, even in a shaded place, can cause extreme exhaustion—heat exhaustion.

In "American Practitioner and Digest of Treatment," Philadelphia, Dr. J. A. Meerloo states that during the war he frequently saw heat exhaustion associated with anxiety and nervousness and a combination of ergotamine and caffeine was found helpful in these cases. "The immediate symptomatic effect was so gratifying that the patients spoke of wonder pills." The preparation used contains 1 mg. of ergotamine tartrate and 100 mg. of caffeine.

Caffeine is effective in heat exhaustion and has been used as a stimulant. It is a powerful central nervous system stimulant. Ergotamine tartrate acts on the involuntary (not under control of the will) smooth muscles. It constricts or partly closes the small blood vessels, thus producing an increase in the blood pressure. Dr. Meerloo used this treatment since the war. He found that these two drugs were well tolerated if given in doses of 1 to 2 tablets, but he warns that it should not be prescribed in cases of peripheral vascular disease (disease of the blood vessels supplying the outer parts of the body and skin).

While the caffeine and ergotamine tartrate in this dosage gave relief of symptoms, Dr. Meerloo states that the other measures, such as rest, fluid intake and additional salt intake, should be used in addition to the above drugs. Thus, usual treatment of heat exhaustion is removal of the patient from influence of excessive heat. He should be placed in a bed in a cool, well-ventilated room with clothing loosened to aid the breathing. Heat is usually applied to the feet. If he is able to swallow, he may be given hot coffee or a quarter teaspoon of spirits of camphor in water.

The treatment of sunstroke (not heat exhaustion) requires removal to a cool room and cold applications.

"I've Got the Ball---I'm Looking for the Caddy"

Edson's Washington News Notebook

Washington—(NEA)—Behind the recent meeting between United Mine Workers' President John L. Lewis and United Steelworkers' President David J. McDonald is some now-forgotten union history that sheds much light on current rumors of labor organization mergers.

The Lewis-McDonald meeting does not point to any organic merger of the coal and steel unions, as has been surmised. But it does indicate that in the future these two big and wealthy unions will be found working for common objectives.

It was John L. Lewis who fathered the formation of the big industrial unions, as distinguished from the older craft unions, back in the 1930's. Lewis was then an AF of L official and his miners' union was in the federation.

The Steelworkers' Organizing Committee was set up in 1935. Lewis' first big drive was to unionize the steel industry. He spent over two and a half million dollars of United Mine Worker's money in that effort, and he succeeded.

Lewis' lieutenant in his endeavor was the late Philip Murray. At that time he was a UMW vice-president. He became president of the United Steelworkers. Murray's secretary at the time was Dave McDonald. He became secretary-treasurer of the new union. Both Murray and McDonald worked under Lewis' direction.

Then came the great schisms. In 1938 Lewis pulled out of the American Federation of Labor to form the Congress of Industrial Organizations. Two years later the giant young industrial unions, like lusty sons suddenly grown too strong for their old man to manage, broke with Lewis.

John L. left his new CIO home to the boys and went back to live by himself in the coal mines. The boys never paid back the two and a half million dollars the old man had given them and he never sued them to get it back, but it was one of the causes of the split.

To Lewis, this sum has been an investment in a greatly strengthened American organized labor movement. He has unquestionably wanted to collect on it. But twice in recent years when his ungrateful offspring have been in trouble, Lewis has offered to go to their financial assistance.

In 1949 when both coal and steel unions were on strike, Lewis proposed that the UMW and nine of the bigger AF of L unions each contribute $250,000 for another two and a half million dollar fund to support the steelworkers in their fight for pensions.

Murray replied that such a fund was a good idea, but that it should be set up for any union in trouble, and not just the steelworkers. The AF of L took no action. Then Murray made his settlement with the steel companies and the idea was dropped.

In 1952, during the big 57-day steel strike, Lewis made Murray another offer of help. Murray replied that any help would be welcome.

The mine workers union then set up a million dollar fund in a Washington bank. The steelworkers union was given authority to draw on the fund as needed. Murray didn't have to draw on it before he settled his strike. But he got full psychological backing and the feeling of security that it provided.

Lewis-Murray Split Never Settled

In spite of this support which Lewis gave Murray, the split between them appeared to be complete and the two men never buried the hatchet. But when Murray died and Dave McDonald became president of the steelworkers union, it provided Lewis with a new opportunity for reunion.

Loyal to Murray, McDonald had not seen and had not spoken to Lewis, except at government tables, during Murray's life. But after his death, when Lewis suggested a meeting, McDonald accepted readily.

Lewis' feteling is that coal and steel unions are naturally related. The two unions bargain with the same companies on many contracts. It is to the advantage of each that they work together.

To the employers in coal and steel industries, the alliance of Lewis and McDonald serves notice that their two unions will work together in presenting future demands.

This may be, moreover, a new trend in labor relations. The series of no-raiding agretements now being concluded between A. F. of L. and C. I. O. unions is another symptom.

Thwarted in their political ambitions last year and further set back by the inability of the Eisenhower administration to reach any agretemnt on revision of the Taft-Hartley Act, it is only natural to find union labor organizations drawing closer together for mutual protection.

Anti-Red Is Fired Summarily, While One Accused as Risk Gets Elaborate Protection

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, July 15—Far more important than whether a congressional committee staff investigator who is bitterly anti-Communist shall be summarily fired without a hearing, while the rights of anybody in the government accused of being a security risk are well protected by an elaborate system of review boards with hearings, is another issue now developing in the Senate. It is whether a minority group of a committee shall be able to resign and a minority party, by refusing to appoint members in their places, shall effectively block the majority operation of congressional committees.

A "sit down strike" against the majority by the minority in committees is something unprecedented in the history of Congress, and it could be destructive. If, for example, the majority party was confident it could uncover corruption in the executive branch of the government, it could be prevented from making such exposure by the simple refusal of minority members to serve on a congressional committee.

The issue has arisen in connection with the action of three Democrats on the subcommittee of the Senate committee on government operations — Senators McClellan of Arkansas, Symington of Missouri and Jackson of the State of Washington—who first voted to remove J. B. Matthews, former Methodist clergyman and staff investigator. When the latter quit anyhow, the three Democratic senators then voted against letting the chairman of the committee, Senator McCarthy, Republican of Wisconsin, choose the members of the operating staff. The Republican majority upheld the right of the chairman to select his aides.

Each committee can make its own decisions as to personnel of the staff, and, if it chooses by majority vote to delegate that authority to the chairman or to revoke it at any time, it can do so. To resign because a majority decide an issue of procedure differently from the viewpoint of the minority is to abandon the proper means of recourse—namely, an appeal to the full committee and, if necessary, to the Senate itself.

The Republicans as a minority party in previous sessions of Congress felt aggrieved at times when counsel not to their liking was chosen by the majority, as, for instance, in the case of the Tydings committee. But the Republicans took their medicine and didn't walk out. In fact, the Senate itself later on appointed Senator McCarran, a Democrat, to conduct a second investigation on the subject.

Another issue which grows out of the same controversy was raised by Senator Monroney, Democrat of Oklahoma, on the floor of the Senate when he uttered a broadside attack against committee investigations on the subject of internal security. His thesis was that the Federal Bureau of Investigation and its director, J. Edgar Hoover, could be relied on to take care of this problem without congressional inquiries.

In this, Senator Monroney is repeating the familiar line of the Democrats in the last presidential campaign, as taken by Adlai Stevenson—namely, that the entire job could be safely left to the FBI alone.

What Mr. Monroney overlooks is that Alger Hiss was caught, not by the FBI, but by testimony during a House Committee hearing, and that the Teapot Dome scandal during the Harding administration was uncovered by a Senate Investigating Committee headed by Senator Tom Walsh of Montana, Democrat. As for the FBI's attitude toward congressional inquiries, the best testimony comes from J. Edgar Hoover himself in a copyrighted interview in "U. S. News & World Report," published on August 11, 1950. In it the following exchange occurred:

"Q: Do you believe that public exposures through congressional committees, when properly safeguarded to avoid implication of innocent parties, could be helpful in drawing public attention to instances and episodes involving espionage and other Communist activity?

"Mr. Hoover: With the laws of libel and slander militantly used by subversives, exposures under oath, with safeguards to protect the innocent, are necessary. A private citizen or even a great metropolitan paper does not have the facilities to make the investigations. Hence, many exposures can be made only through an official investigating committee possessing the power of subpoena with persuasive facilities such as laws covering perjury and the power to cite for contempt."

It would be unfortunate if the Democrats attempted to make a partisan issue out of their refusal to serve on the subcommittee of the Senate Government Operations Committee. For partisanship works both ways—and some Republicans could soon be claiming that the real reason that the Democrats have been balking is that they are afraid of what may be uncovered in the future concerning some hitherto undisclosed activities of Communist sympathizers inside the Truman administration.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

I closed yesterday's discussion of the dismissal of J. B. Matthews, the greatest Red-baiter of them all, with a promise to summarize the triumphant editorial of Pat Scanlon, the editor of the Brooklyn Tablet, the best Catholic diocesan weekly in the country, reviewing his similar experience with a Communist penetration of the Catholic community. Matthews was forced out of his position as executive director of the so-called McCarthy committee, a job he accepted only at great personal sacrifice, not because his attack on Red and fellow-travelers in the clergy was false, but because it was all too true. Nobody dared challenge Matthews' statements in American Mercury.

Scanlon was in the same fix a few years ago. However, unlike the political and moral cowards who threw down Matthews, his superiors ignored the tempest. He recently won a sweet vindication.

Here is what Mr. Scanlon wrote in the Tablet for June 13, with a few elisions for economy of space, but with no distortion of meaning:

"The news article stating that Senator Jenner had evidence that a Communist party cell existed to infiltrate the Catholic Church makes interesting reading. A witness before the Senate Internal Security subcommittee, Harold King, a New York city public school teacher, who had been identified by other witnesses as a Communist, admitted he was a member of the 'Committee of Catholics on Human Rights.' When asked if he was a member of a Communist cell, the special purpose of which was to influence Catholic policy, he refused to answer on constitutional grounds.

"The Tablet some years back exposed this committee which was made up of a number of well-known Catholics. It was headed for a time by Senator James Murray, of Montana, and at another time by Supreme Court Justice Frank Murphy.

"The committee in 1939 started a monthly publication called the 'Voice for Human Rights.' The late Professor Emanuel Chapman was the executive director with King very important, but in the background."

Chapman was a convert to the Catholic faith.

"The first issue was ushered in with tremendous publicity, with 250,000 copies printed. Gene Tunney sold the first copy to Mayor La Guardia on the city hall steps. Leaders in church and state saluted it. Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt stated it recognized a great cause and she predicted success. It carried pictures of bishops, priests and laymen, denouncing 'anti-Semitism.' Nothing was said about anti-Christianity or the persecution of Catholics. Nazis were condemned in every paragraph. Not a murmur was uttered against communism.

"The following week the Tablet called the 'Voice' a preposterous fraud, meant to divide Catholics by making Father Coughlin a whipping-boy and using anti-Semitism to hide the crimes of communism. The executive board of the committee decided to take the Tablet to task and to have the 'Voice' circulated outside the churches in the Brooklyn diocese. The second issue was held up a month to do a job on us. A half-dozen articles, several from Catholic papers, scored us severely. But none met our criticism."

Scanlon hit them again, calling on Emanuel Chapman to condemn communism and anti-Christianity. Scanlon says he knew even then the financial backers of the "Voice."

Continuing he writes: "Dr. Francis McMahon of Notre Dame and several others in the next issue took up cudgels against us and with considerable bitterness. Nor did they face the question.

"Meanwhile the committee for human rights was completely unsuccessful in having the publication sold outside churches in this diocese. One more issue was printed and it folded up.

"In April of 1944, the committee was revived with the same cast of characters but without the 'Voice.' One of its big ventures was a money-raising public dinner held November 28, 1946. The annual Msgr. John A. Ryan Award for Human Rights was established. Auxiliary Bishop Bernard Shiel, of Chicago, and Phillip Murray were the recipients. Among the speakers was a well-known Communist and others who have since been revealed as champions of the Soviet. The following year, March 3, 1947, a similar dinner was held and the Ryan awards were given to Basil O'Connor and Archbishop Richard Cushing, who did not appear to accept the honor. Stanley Is Winner In Virginia Test

Richmond, Va., July 15 (AP)—Thomas B. Stanley, a quiet Conservative who stuck strictly to character during the campaign, won a runaway nomination for governor in Tuesday's Virigina Democratic primary election.

He trounced State Sen. Charles R. Fenwick by a lopsided majority of nearly two to one. He will go against Ted Dalton, the Republican nominee and GOP national committeeman from Virginia, in the Nov. 3 general election in what already is shaping up as a sterner fight than the one decided yesterday.

Both Stanley, who will be 63 tomorrow, and Fenwick are considered members of the dominant organization wing of the party, although Stanley enjoyed the role of favorite son.

The organization leader, Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D.-Va.), took no public part in the campaign but, immediately after Stanley's victory was apparent, he wired congratulations and promised his "enthusiastic support" to try to stem whatever the Republicans might offer.

Scores Easy Victory

Lt. Gov. A. E. S. Stephens of Smithfield also scored an easy victory in his bid for renomination. His margin over Delegate Charles N. Loving of Bath—a member of the Virginia House of Delegates—was even greater, nearly three to one. Attorney General J. Lindsay Almond was unopposed for renomination.

When the Associated Press ceased tabulation of returns early today, these were the unofficial totals:

For governor—1,671 of 1,816 voting precincts gave Stanley 141,399 to Fenwick's 73,616.

For lieutenant governor—1,649 precincts gave Stephens 139,892 to Loving's 46,792.

There also were contests for 41 of Virginia's House of Delegates seats in the primary.

Sea Search Canceled For Air Line Victims

Honolulu, July 15 (AP)—The Hawaiian sea frontier has called off the air sea search for victims of the Transocean Air Lines passenger plane crash Saturday 330 miles east of Wake Island in which 58 persons perished.

Fourteen mutiliated bodies were recovered before the search halted yesterday at 4 p. m. (9 p. m. CST).

The navy said the Standard Oil tanker Lombardi sighted two more bodies but was unable to recover them.

The navy transport Barrett, which first came upon the plane wreckage, radioed that the plane crash apparently was caused by an explosion.

The Barrett added that there was "no possibility of finding survivors alive."

The fair, to be held on the church lawn, will start at 2:30 p. m. Various booths will be open. A cafeteria style supper, featuring baked ham, will be held in the church hall at 5:30 p. m.

Miss Pearl DeForce is chairman of the supper committee, Mrs. Kenneth Clark has charge of the ice cream and cake, and Mrs. Walter Keator is in charge of the fancy booth.

The Ladies' Aid conducts a similar affair each year in the summer in order to raise the necessary funds to help defray church expenses. The public is invited.

Firehall Work to Begin

Tillson, July 14—A meeting of the board of fire commissioners, Tillson fire district, will be held at the firehall Wednesday at 8 p. m. A spokesman for the board of commissioners announced that work on the entry ways inside the firehall will soon get under way. Contracts have been signed and erection should be completed before September. Following completion of this work, which is being undertaken as a joint enterprise by the fire company, the commissioners and the board of education, the hall is expected to be in condition to pass inspection by the state, and by fall, to be used for public activities, the spokesman explained.

4-H Members at Camp

Tillson, July 14—Several members of the Tillson 4-H Club left Sunday for one week at Camp Pine, the intra-county 4-H Club camp near Sundown, along the Ulster and Sullivan county line. While there, the youngsters will study nature lore, receive beginners and advanced instruction in swimming study arts and craft and conservation.

As a result of funds raised at card parties throughout the winter months, the local 4-H Club paid the registration fee and aided with expenses of each one attending camp. Those attending included David Mollenhauer, Richard Serenbetz, Richard Segleken, Eugene Frost, James Freese, Randolph Van Keuren, William Van Kleeck, James Whitaker, George Taylor, William Wakeley, Glenn Sutherland, Howard Sutherland, Howard Sutherland, Vincent Carroll and Sandra Phillips. Frank Rowe is attending as junior camp counsellor.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

This Defensive Play Ingenious and Risky

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Sometimes a defender's best play is simple and painless, but in today's hand we see a defensive play that was both ingenious and risky.

West opened the queen of clubs, and dummy won with the ace. When South had to follow suit with the king, it was quite clear to everybody at the table that South had started the hand with a singleton club.

Declarer's next step, naturally enough, was to take the spade finesse. The queen of spades rode around to West's king, and now West had to make the important decision.

It was perfectly clear that South had three aces for his opening bid and his later strong bidding. It was equally clear that the defenders could take only one spade and one heart, and therefore needed two diamond tricks to defeat the contract.

West's "normal" defensive play was to lead the king of diamonds. Obviously, this would not produce two diamond tricks for the defenders. South would surely win with the ace of diamonds, and West could eventually take the queen of diamonds; but dummy's jack of diamonds would remain to control the suit.

All of this flashed through West's mind since West was an experienced bridge player. As a result, West was able to make an ingenious but risky return without much hesitation. He led back the deuce of diamonds.

Now look at the hand from declarer's point of view. When the deuce of diamonds is returned, it doesn't seem likely that West has led from the king and queen of diamonds. Hence South does not expect to gain by playing dummy's jack of diamonds. There was a fair chance, South thought, that West had led from some diamond combination that included the ten. In any such case, the winning procedure was to play a low diamond from dummy.

When South played a low diamond from dummy, East naturally played the ten of diamonds, and South had to win with the ace. This gave West two diamond tricks, which he was able to cash when he gained the lead with the king of hearts. West had given declarer a chance to make 11 tricks, but his risky diamond return was the only defensive play that had any chance to defeat the contract.

Some were hurt—none seriously.

Showdown Might

tempt to straighten out a bulge in the battle line rather than an effort to block a truce.

The Communist radio at the North Korean capital of Pyongyang said Tuesday night that 90 per cent of the 27,000 anti-Communist North Korean war prisoners freed from allied camps last month now are at Pohang, north of Pusan on the east coast.

The Red radio attributed its information to a special correspondent at Panmunjom.

Claim Is Rapped

The broadcast said since the prisoners now are concentrated in one place, the allied claim that they have melted into the civilian population and cannot be recaptured does not hold water.

The Reds have insisted on the recovery of these prisoners since the first big group fled from UN stockades on orders of President Rhee June 18.

Allied spokesmen declined to comment on the Red broadcast.

A South Korean defense ministry official said some of the released prisoners are in the Pohang area. But he denied emphatically that 90 per cent of the 27,000 are there.

A source close to the South Korean National Police said most of the escaped prisoners enlisted in the ROK Army are camped around Pohang. He said "more than one-third" of the escaped prisoners volunteered to join the army.

South Korean Defense Minister Sohn Won Il has ruled that none of the volunteers can be accepted and has ordered the discharge of escaped prisoners already enlisted.

Scout Broadcast Time Is Changed

A change in the broadcast time from the Boy Scout national jamboree at Santa Ana, Calif., was announced today by the local Boy Scout office.

Originally, the radio broadcast scheduled for Thursday, July 23, was set for 7:35 p. m. Pacific Daylight Time or 10:35 p. m. EST. The new hour for the broadcast will be 8 p. m. PDT and 11 p. m. EST.

No change was given for the television program scheduled for Saturday, July 18, over CBS, Channel 2, from 9 to 10 p. m. EST.

Scouts from this area are scheduled to arrive in Albany Friday, July 31, at 8:30 a. m., it was announced today. They will make their return to their own localities by bus and family cars.

Late Bulletin

Seoul, Thursday, July 16 (AP)—Fresh Chinese Communist troops supported by tanks and thunderous artillery opened a new drive at dusk Wednesday south of Kumsong on the Korean east-central front, ending a brief lull in the biggest Red offensive in more than two years.

Frontline officers said 3,000 Reds hurled a savage two-prong regimental assault and another 3,000 were believed ready to be thrown into the renewed fight, aimed at an allied road net.

Fighting was described as heavy where the Reds hit the line.

There was no immediate report of fighting along the rest of the 20 mile front between Kumhwa and the Pukhan river which 80,000 Reds rolled back an undisclosed distance Monday and Tuesday.

A Chinese junior officer captured Wednesday revealed the initial Red assault had been long planned.

$11,250 Budget Aim of Chamber

A 1953-54 Chamber of Commerce budget of $11,250 adopted last night at a directors meeting in the Governor Clinton Hotel calls for a membership of 450 (paid-up.)

The forthcoming program was reported as "very comprehensive," and will be announced. A total of 393 members were reported paid up to date, 47 are due and 17 additional promises were received by the membership committee.

A new move under way is the establishment of legislative committees to cover activities of city, county, state and national legislatures.

New effort will be made to increase local employment opportunities for men. Industries will be encouraged to expand, they will be helped toward better marketing possibilities, and efforts will be renewed to bring new industries here.

The program also calls for efforts to consolidate all local financial drives, and in cooperation with the state commerce department a post-Korean war business planning committee will be appointed to adjust business on a peace-time basis, if and when the war ends.

It was decided to cancel the August meeting and meet again Sept. 8. President Adrian Kaplan presided last night.

Reardon Must Serve

Albany, July 15 (AP)—The Court of Appeals has ruled that James E. Reardon, whom a judge called a "comparatively big fish" in the Brooklyn police graft scandal, must serve a 2½-to-5 year sentence for perjury. The state's highest court yesterday unanimously upheld the former New York city policeman's conviction on a charge of lying to a racket-probing grand jury.

Fireman Declares Wright Led Reds In Albany Area

Albany, July 15 (AP)—John Mills Davis, who identified himself as an Albany fireman, today listed John Wright, a lately resigned state employe, as a "leader" of the Communist party in the Albany area.

Davis told a subcommittee of the House Committee on Un-American Activities that Wright was one of eight so-called "leaders."

He said the others were David Rappaport, Stella Gold, Morris Zuckman, Elias Schwartzbart, Michael and Jeanette Dworkin and Gus Cakoulis.

Davis identified Wright as a leader in the United Public Workers Union and Stella Gold and Zuckman as leaders of the American Labor party in Albany. He did not identify the others further.

Wright is one of the three witnesses who recently quit state jobs and were waiting to testify before the committee later today.

Davis swore he was once a paid organizer for the Communist party in the Albany area.

Joined in 1939

The 40-year-old witness told the House probers that he joined the party in 1939 while working for a department store in New York city.

He said he became an organizer for the party in the fall of 1946.

Davis told the subcommittee he was brought to Albany by Harold Klein, whom he described as an upstate eastern organizer for the party.

Klein introduced him, he continued, to an Evelyn Goldstein, Davis said the two told him it would be necessary for him to meet "leaders" in the Albany area.

Davis said that "state employes were the backbone of the Albany area party at the time."

Plan Is Discussed

Davis, referring to a meeting of Communist Party members here in 1946, said he discussed a general plan of action for the area.

He said, "one of the main efforts of the party was to broaden its influence among railroad workers."

Consequently, he said, the first matter discussed was the establishment of what he called a "railroad group" within the Albany Communist group.

Davis was expected to be followed on the stand by at least three resigned state employes.

The subcommittee is investigating Communist activities upstate.

Chairman Bernard W. Kearny (R.-N. Y.) said last night the subcommittee would call Wright, formerly a senior parole officer, and Betty Laros and Rena Dodd, bacteriologists who resigned from the State Health Department.

West Coast Girl Finds 'Smuggling' Troublous Thing

Long Beach, Calif., July 15 (AP)—The dream that sailors are supposed to have—smuggling a girl aboard ship—is a nightmare today for Joan Garrison.

Blue-eyed Joan, 18, was found in hiding as big guns of the cruiser Los Angeles thundered in target practice at sea. She faces charges of illegally wearing a navy uniform.

Joan, who was arraigned yesterday before a United States commissioner, told reporters it happened because of a dare—and a friend.

"He's a sailor who gets the craziest ideas," she explained. "A bunch of us were up at my apartment in Long Beach clowning around and it sounded like fun, so I said, sure, I'd go on the ship. My girl friends bobbed my hair real short."

'Away We Went'

"About 4 a. m., he took me aboard a liberty boat and away we went. There were a lot of guys going back to the ship from liberty and some saw that I was a girl and snickered.

"We came alongside, and like the rest I said to the officer of the deck in a real low voice, 'Request permission to come aboard, sir.'

"'Permission granted,' he said."

But her friend was hustled off to explain why he was over leave.

"I hid behind a whatyacallit—a gun mount—until he came back with a friend. They took me aft to the crew's quarters and hid me in a steel bunk which they lashed to the bulkhead.

"All of a sudden the guns began to shoot. I was terrified. I saw a door with a sign that read: 'Danger. High voltage. Do not enter'.

Found by Security

"So I entered. The guns fired and I jumped a lot. I started to cry. Finally a securiey patrolman found me. He took me to the Master of Arms.

"They took my blues away and made me get into this skivvy shirt and dungarees. I felt embarrassed. Thirteen hundred men and me. I think every doggone one of them stuck his head into the door to stare."

Joan said she had wanted to see her former husband stationed aboard the Los Angeles, but I didn't. Of her meeting with the ship's captain, she declared:

"He acted real shook up. I guess he wasn't used to having a woman aboard."

Her friend? He's in the brig, awaiting naval discipline.

Crippled Freighter Moves Into Frisco

The Matson freighter Hawaiian Pilot, with her bow crushed in, moves past Alcatraz Prison in San Francisco Bay. The ship collided with another freighter, the Jacob Luckenbach, in a murky fog 18 miles off the Golden Gate. The Jacob Luckenbach sank shortly after but her crew of 49 were saved. Some were hurt—none seriously.

Showdown Might

tempt to straighten out a bulge in the battle line rather than an effort to block a truce.

The Communist radio at the North Korean capital of Pyongyang said Tuesday night that 90 per cent of the 27,000 anti-Communist North Korean war prisoners freed from allied camps last month now are at Pohang, north of Pusan on the east coast.

The Red radio attributed its information to a special correspondent at Panmunjom.

Claim Is Rapped

The broadcast said since the prisoners now are concentrated in one place, the allied claim that they have melted into the civilian population and cannot be recaptured does not hold water.

The Reds have insisted on the recovery of these prisoners since the first big group fled from UN stockades on orders of President Rhee June 18.

Allied spokesmen declined to comment on the Red broadcast.

A South Korean defense ministry official said some of the released prisoners are in the Pohang area. But he denied emphatically that 90 per cent of the 27,000 are there.

A source close to the South Korean National Police said most of the escaped prisoners enlisted in the ROK Army are camped around Pohang. He said "more than one-third" of the escaped prisoners volunteered to join the army.

South Korean Defense Minister Sohn Won Il has ruled that none of the volunteers can be accepted and has ordered the discharge of escaped prisoners already enlisted.

Scout Broadcast Time Is Changed

A change in the broadcast time from the Boy Scout national jamboree at Santa Ana, Calif., was announced today by the local Boy Scout office.

Originally, the radio broadcast scheduled for Thursday, July 23, was set for 7:35 p. m. Pacific Daylight Time or 10:35 p. m. EST. The new hour for the broadcast will be 8 p. m. PDT and 11 p. m. EST.

No change was given for the television program scheduled for Saturday, July 18, over CBS, Channel 2, from 9 to 10 p. m. EST.

Scouts from this area are scheduled to arrive in Albany Friday, July 31, at 8:30 a. m., it was announced today. They will make their return to their own localities by bus and family cars.

Late Bulletin

Seoul, Thursday, July 16 (AP)—Fresh Chinese Communist troops supported by tanks and thunderous artillery opened a new drive at dusk Wednesday south of Kumsong on the Korean east-central front, ending a brief lull in the biggest Red offensive in more than two years.

Frontline officers said 3,000 Reds hurled a savage two-prong regimental assault and another 3,000 were believed ready to be thrown into the renewed fight, aimed at an allied road net.

Fighting was described as heavy where the Reds hit the line.

There was no immediate report of fighting along the rest of the 20 mile front between Kumhwa and the Pukhan river which 80,000 Reds rolled back an undisclosed distance Monday and Tuesday.

A Chinese junior officer captured Wednesday revealed the initial Red assault had been long planned.

$11,250 Budget Aim of Chamber

A 1953-54 Chamber of Commerce budget of $11,250 adopted last night at a directors meeting in the Governor Clinton Hotel calls for a membership of 450 (paid-up.)

The forthcoming program was reported as "very comprehensive," and will be announced. A total of 393 members were reported paid up to date, 47 are due and 17 additional promises were received by the membership committee.

A new move under way is the establishment of legislative committees to cover activities of city, county, state and national legislatures.

New effort will be made to increase local employment opportunities for men. Industries will be encouraged to expand, they will be helped toward better marketing possibilities, and efforts will be renewed to bring new industries here.

The program also calls for efforts to consolidate all local financial drives, and in cooperation with the state commerce department a post-Korean war business planning committee will be appointed to adjust business on a peace-time basis, if and when the war ends.

It was decided to cancel the August meeting and meet again Sept. 8. President Adrian Kaplan presided last night.

Reardon Must Serve

Albany, July 15 (AP)—The Court of Appeals has ruled that James E. Reardon, whom a judge called a "comparatively big fish" in the Brooklyn police graft scandal, must serve a 2½-to-5 year sentence for perjury. The state's highest court yesterday unanimously upheld the former New York city policeman's conviction on a charge of lying to a racket-probing grand jury.

Fireman Declares Wright Led Reds In Albany Area

Albany, July 15 (AP)—John Mills Davis, who identified himself as an Albany fireman, today listed John Wright, a lately resigned state employe, as a "leader" of the Communist party in the Albany area.

Davis told a subcommittee of the House Committee on Un-American Activities that Wright was one of eight so-called "leaders."

He said the others were David Rappaport, Stella Gold, Morris Zuckman, Elias Schwartzbart, Michael and Jeanette Dworkin and Gus Cakoulis.

Davis identified Wright as a leader in the United Public Workers Union and Stella Gold and Zuckman as leaders of the American Labor party in Albany. He did not identify the others further.

Wright is one of the three witnesses who recently quit state jobs and were waiting to testify before the committee later today.

Davis swore he was once a paid organizer for the Communist party in the Albany area.

Joined in 1939

The 40-year-old witness told the House probers that he joined the party in 1939 while working for a department store in New York city.

He said he became an organizer for the party in the fall of 1946.

Davis told the subcommittee he was brought to Albany by Harold Klein, whom he described as an upstate eastern organizer for the party.

Klein introduced him, he continued, to an Evelyn Goldstein, Davis said the two told him it would be necessary for him to meet "leaders" in the Albany area.

Davis said that "state employes were the backbone of the Albany area party at the time."

Plan Is Discussed

Davis, referring to a meeting of Communist Party members here in 1946, said he discussed a general plan of action for the area.

He said, "one of the main efforts of the party was to broaden its influence among railroad workers."

Consequently, he said, the first matter discussed was the establishment of what he called a "railroad group" within the Albany Communist group.

Davis was expected to be followed on the stand by at least three resigned state employes.

The subcommittee is investigating Communist activities upstate.

Chairman Bernard W. Kearny (R.-N. Y.) said last night the subcommittee would call Wright, formerly a senior parole officer, and Betty Laros and Rena Dodd, bacteriologists who resigned from the State Health Department.

West Coast Girl Finds 'Smuggling' Troublous Thing

Long Beach, Calif., July 15 (AP)—The dream that sailors are supposed to have—smuggling a girl aboard ship—is a nightmare today for Joan Garrison.

Blue-eyed Joan, 18, was found in hiding as big guns of the cruiser Los Angeles thundered in target practice at sea. She faces charges of illegally wearing a navy uniform.

Joan, who was arraigned yesterday before a United States commissioner, told reporters it happened because of a dare—and a friend.

"He's a sailor who gets the craziest ideas," she explained. "A bunch of us were up at my apartment in Long Beach clowning around and it sounded like fun, so I said, sure, I'd go on the ship. My girl friends bobbed my hair real short."

'Away We Went'

"About 4 a. m., he took me aboard a liberty boat and away we went. There were a lot of guys going back to the ship from liberty and some saw that I was a girl and snickered.

"We came alongside, and like the rest I said to the officer of the deck in a real low voice, 'Request permission to come aboard, sir.'

"'Permission granted,' he said."

But her friend was hustled off to explain why he was over leave.

"I hid behind a whatyacallit—a gun mount—until he came back with a friend. They took me aft to the crew's quarters and hid me in a steel bunk which they lashed to the bulkhead.

"All of a sudden the guns began to shoot. I was terrified. I saw a door with a sign that read: 'Danger. High voltage. Do not enter'.

Found by Security

"So I entered. The guns fired and I jumped a lot. I started to cry. Finally a securiey patrolman found me. He took me to the Master of Arms.

"They took my blues away and made me get into this skivvy shirt and dungarees. I felt embarrassed. Thirteen hundred men and me. I think every doggone one of them stuck his head into the door to stare."

Joan said she had wanted to see her former husband stationed aboard the Los Angeles, but I didn't. Of her meeting with the ship's captain, she declared:

"He acted real shook up. I guess he wasn't used to having a woman aboard."

Her friend? He's in the brig, awaiting naval discipline.

Town of Rochester Has Many Fine Colonial Houses

Stone houses erected during the 18th Century are scattered throughout the Town of Rochester which is celebrating its 250th anniversary on July 23, 24 and 25.

Many of these houses have been repaired and altered through the years and some of them have had their entire stone work enclosed.

Near the northern end of the town on the west side of Route 209 and some distance from it is the home of Mrs. Derringer, known as the Winfield House, believed to have been built in 1732 by Abraham Sahler. A wooden sign beside the road marks the location as Winfield Corners. In former years it was known as the Sahler Neighborhood.

Also on the same side of the road and not far away from the Winfield House is another erected in 1784. Once owned by Richard Davis Sahler and at one time the residence of Judge Richard Davis, it is now owned by George Skinner.

Sykes Home Has Tunnel

About a mile distant, set somewhat back from Route 209, is the home of Howard Sykes, an interesting feature of which is the tunnel which extends from the cellar to the brook and which may have been built for safety purposes. The home was built by Benjamin Schoonmaker and has remained in the family since that time. Mrs. Sykes was a Schoonmaker.

Half a mile farther is the Grange Hall, a former schoolhouse more than 100 years old. Across the highway lies the old drilling ground used by the militia in former days. Beyond the drilling ground lies a home near Rondout Creek now owned by Edward Barley, the date of construction unknown. It is believed to have been built by a man named Krom. Nelson Krom lived there at one time.

Beyond the hamlet of Accord on the west side of the highway is the three-story stone Bevier House, planned by Philip DuBois Bevier who died before construction could begin. The home was completed in 1805 by his wife. It has been rebuilt but the original lines have been retained. It is now owned by Howard C. Anderson.

Site of Famous Tavern

Another half mile along Route 209 is a road marker indicating the location of the Silas Bouck Tavern. Bouck is famous for his scouting expedition against the Indians, his capture and escape from Montreal.

On the east side of the highway half a mile from the site of the old tavern is the home of Albert Myers. The structure, probably erected by a member of the Hornbeck family early in the 18th Century, has been altered by dormer windows.

Nearby and across the road is a house of brick and stone, with brick predominating, built probably about the beginning of the 19th Century. Possibly the oldest brick home in the town, it is owned by Leo Gazlay.

Leaving the main road at this point and following a dirt side road one comes to a stone house set by a waterfall. It was also built by the Hoornbeck family in the early 18th Century. Near the home, now owned by Herman Dunn, once stood two mills.

Back on 209 at the foot of the Kerhonkson hill stands an old stone house owned by Friend Sheldon. Date of its construction is unknown but it is believed to be early since the mortar was made of clay, mud and straw. It is believed to have been built by a man named Van Leuven and at one time was occupied by "Builty Chip" and his son, "Manny."

Hid in Dutch Oven

Other houses include the Osterhoudt House in Pataukunk and the Krom Homestead on the Queens Highway, now owned by Rudolf Simson. In upper Mettacahonts are two houses of the Baker family. The one in which Elton Depew now lives is reputed to have been one which was attacked by Indians and all carried away except one little boy who hid in the Dutch oven.

In Mettacahonts are the Osterhoudt House, now owned by Michael Gates and a second Osterhoudt House owned by Chester Kohn which was moved from near Whitfield, the Kelder House, formerly of one room, now occupied by Franklin Kelder, and the Joshua Schoonmaker House, now owned by Kenneth Rider. Nearby once stood a coffin shop, later used as a wagon-making shop.

In Whitfield is the home of Mrs. Lincoln Dunn. The McGuffeys live in the former Johannis Rider home built about 1755 and the Messengers own the home of Ephraim Depuy erected in 1730. Johannis Rider also built a stone schoolhouse about 1800, presently owned and occupied by Jesse Quick. Prior to the Revolution a Frederick Markle built a stone house on the Kripplebush road, formerly the home of the late J. Hartley Tanner.

Turnpike Homes Listed

Along the Lucas Turnpike is the home of Cleveland Rider and on a road parallel to the turnpike the homes of Charles Krom, John Depew and the Westbrook House.

At Kyserike is the home of Wilson Sheeley owned by Solomon Sahler and probably built by a descendant of Aert Van Wagenen.

On the road from Accord to Alligerville are the homes of Edward Davenport and John L. Schoonmaker. No date has been set for the former but the mortar is of clay and straw. The latter was built in 1787 by John D. Schoonmaker.

On the road from Route 209 to Whitfield stands the old home now owned by the Marshalls, formerly known as the Duryea House and the Westbrook House. Wessel Broadhead Westbrook once lived here. In the basement there are still vestiges of former slave quarters.

Some of these old homes will be open to the public Friday afternoon, July 24. Information and directions may be obtained from the schoolhouse in Accord on that day.

Stone Houses Reflect Town History

An important aspect of the 250th anniversary of the Town of Rochester being celebrated July 23, 24 and 25 is its old homes. The Kelder house above, owned by Franklin Kelder, formerly consisting of only one room, is located in Mettacahonts.

Standing on the road from 209 to Whitfield is a home owned by the Marshalls, formerly known as the Duryea House and the Westbrook House. Derick Westbrook asked for the land in this area for a mill in 1706. The mill has since disappeared.

Town of Rochester Has Many Fine Colonial Houses

Stone houses erected during the 18th Century are scattered throughout the Town of Rochester which is celebrating its 250th anniversary on July 23, 24 and 25.

Many of these houses have been repaired and altered through the years and some of them have had their entire stone work enclosed.

Near the northern end of the town on the west side of Route 209 and some distance from it is the home of Mrs. Derringer, known as the Winfield House, believed to have been built in 1732 by Abraham Sahler. A wooden sign beside the road marks the location as Winfield Corners. In former years it was known as the Sahler Neighborhood.

Also on the same side of the road and not far away from the Winfield House is another erected in 1784. Once owned by Richard Davis Sahler and at one time the residence of Judge Richard Davis, it is now owned by George Skinner.

Sykes Home Has Tunnel

About a mile distant, set somewhat back from Route 209, is the home of Howard Sykes, an interesting feature of which is the tunnel which extends from the cellar to the brook and which may have been built for safety purposes. The home was built by Benjamin Schoonmaker and has remained in the family since that time. Mrs. Sykes was a Schoonmaker.

Half a mile farther is the Grange Hall, a former schoolhouse more than 100 years old. Across the highway lies the old drilling ground used by the militia in former days. Beyond the drilling ground lies a home near Rondout Creek now owned by Edward Barley, the date of construction unknown. It is believed to have been built by a man named Krom. Nelson Krom lived there at one time.

Beyond the hamlet of Accord on the west side of the highway is the three-story stone Bevier House, planned by Philip DuBois Bevier who died before construction could begin. The home was completed in 1805 by his wife. It has been rebuilt but the original lines have been retained. It is now owned by Howard C. Anderson.

Site of Famous Tavern

Another half mile along Route 209 is a road marker indicating the location of the Silas Bouck Tavern. Bouck is famous for his scouting expedition against the Indians, his capture and escape from Montreal.

On the east side of the highway half a mile from the site of the old tavern is the home of Albert Myers. The structure, probably erected by a member of the Hornbeck family early in the 18th Century, has been altered by dormer windows.

Alderman Abram Relyea of the Eleventh Ward requested that a bump on Boulevard about 200 feet from the Tuberculosis Hospital entrance be repaired or a sign be placed along the approaches. This resolution was referred to the Board of Public Works.

A second resolution by Relyea calling attention to the presence of a bus on the sidewalk and city property on the southwest corner of South Wall street and Boulevard and asking the city to take action to have it removed by the persons responsible for it being there was also referred to the Board of Public Works. Relyea said the bus, which was being repaired, was "very annoying to people on South Wall street and compels people on the west side of the street to walk in the street."

Under Discussion

The matter of store hours for the summer months has been under discussion by city merchants for about a month. Within that period of time the Wonderly Company announced its closing for the entire day on Mondays, and this was followed by the shoe repair shops closing the same day. Sometime ago the local barber and beauty shops announced a Monday closing, and most of the local jewelry stores have followed the practice of closing every Thursday afternoon for the past two months. Other merchants began talking about a shorter work-week for their employes, and various possibilities were mentioned.

Questionnaire was Sent

A questionnaire sent to member and non-member stores by the Uptown Business Men's Association asking merchants to express their preference for Monday closing, Thursday afternoon closing or Saturday afternoon closing. The questionnaires that were returned predominantly favored Monday closing, and an announcement to that effect was made.

Within a week, however, a number of stores reconsidered and at a special meeting held at Reade's Theatre, the matter of Monday closing was tabled.

A number of merchants, stating they still favored giving their employes additional time off during the summer, then began independently a canvass on the proposal to close Saturday afternoons, and that canvass resulted in today's announcement.

Meanwhile, its was learned, a number of store clerks had made inquiries of local labor leaders as to the possibilities of unionizing. Both AFL and CIO international retail sore unions became interested and investigations were begun in the area, but no further developments were reported today.

27,476 Are Returned

Builds Apparatus for Cerebral Palsy Clinic

Anthony Alecca of 65 Gill street demonstrates two pieces of apparatus used by the Cerebral Palsy Clinic in the rehabilitation of stricken youngsters. The model for the so-called standing board—with elevator is Bernice Amato, 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Amato, next door neighbors of the Aleccas. Miss Amato enjoys perfect health, but, after some coaxing, consented to serve as the model. Alecca is holding what is known as a breath control—inclined plane panel. He built both items in the workshop in the basement of his home. Alecca has also done repair work on several clinic instruments in the past. The standing board and breath control panel were to be turned over to Mrs. Charlotte Peck at the clinic today. (Freeman Photo).

Indictment Refused

Trenton, N. J., July 15 (AP)—A federal grand jury today refused to indict retired rumrunner Abner (Longie) Zwillman on charges of income tax evasion. The jury, which considered a $55,114 tax evasion complaint against Zwillman, reported "no bill." The jury's report was handed to Federal Judge Phillip Forman in his chambers and made public shortly after. Arthur B. Cunningham, a special assistant to U. S. Attorney General Herbert W. Brownell, said the complaint would be vacated "sometime today." Cunningham handled the complaint for the government.

Oklahoma City (AP)—A resident of rural Choctaw, charged with running a red light, pictured herself today as the victim of the complex big city traffic light system. "There's six traffic lights at that intersection," Mrs. Ruby Vern Lovell, 35, told the court. "I couldn't tell which was mine." "All you have to do is follow the one in front of you," advised Judge James Demopolos, and fined her $10.

Americans, ROKs Forced to Turn Guns

Central Front, July 15 (AP)—American and South Korean artillerymen captured by Chinese Communists were forced at gunpoint to fire shells at their Allied comrades, ROK army intelligence officers near the front said today.

U. S. officers acknowledged it was "definitely possible"—but found no confirmation for the reports.

Lt. Col. Choi Soo Kuen, chief of intelligence for the ROK Capitol Division, turned over the report to American advisers.

The report apparently was based on accounts of Korean artillerymen who were overrun but escaped capture during the week's big Communist offensive at the Kumsong bulge, an American officer said.

ROKs, Artillery

fantry toward newly-occupied positions.

As the overcast began to clear late Wednesday, Fifth Air Force stepped up blows against the Reds.

Bombs Are Dropped

Before that, fewer than 100 planes unloaded about 100 tons of bombs on Communist frontal areas from Kumsong to the east coast.

On the front, allied forces were fully alerted for further Red assaults. Units were sorted out and redeployed over the bloodied sector east of Kumhwa to the Pukhan river.

Muddy roads were clogged with supply trucks headed toward the front.

Some exhausted soldiers sprawled out asleep on the ground.

Others sat by the side of the road, opening blisters and washing swollen feet in muddy water.

Artillery fire fell off. American advisors with the ROKs said the Chinese apparently were moving up their artillery and mortars in support of new positions.

Enemy Is Sought

ROK soldiers continued searching for infiltrators left over from the big Red push. Two Chinese infiltrating units were shot up just before noon.

Gen. Taylor was accompanied to the front by ROK Chief of Staff Gen. Sun Yup Paik, ROK Defense Minister Adm. Sohn Won Il and Brig. Gen. George C. Rogers, chief of the Korean military advisory group.

The South Korean troops who bore the brunt of the Red attack received a personal message from President Syngman Rhee. He told his troops to stand firm and die if necessary to stop the Chinese invaders. Rhee praised them for the fight they have made and exhorted them to even greater efforts.

GASTON FORTIN should know about construction costs—he's been building fine homes since 1925.

We asked a builder...

"How much more do telephone buildings cost today?"

"Back in 1940," replied Gaston Fortin, "I could build two homes like this for what one costs today. My guess is that inflation has upped the cost of telephone buildings the same way."

Mr. Fortin hit it on the nose. The picture below tells the story. But this is only one example of how inflation has hit us.

THIS TELEPHONE BUILDING cost $225,000 in 1940. Today the same amount of money would pay for only half of it. And this is just one example of how inflation affects our statewide expansion and improvement program.

Cable, poles, trucks—everything we buy carries today's inflated price tags.

Yet to provide more service, and even better service, we're pushing right ahead with our big expansion and improvement program. Today's inflated costs have made it the most expensive we have ever undertaken. They have also shrunk the dollars we have set aside to replace telephone plant that wears out.

Everyone feels inflation. Your cost of living is up 89% since 1940. Our costs have soared, too. Yet during the same period, the average price of telephone service has increased only 15% — more for some, less for others, of course, depending on the type of service and the use made of it.

As a result, our expenses have increased at a faster rate than our revenues. Operating efficiencies and technical improvements have narrowed this gap, but they fall far short of closing it.

We think these facts speak for themselves—especially since telephone service today is better than ever before.

Alderman Abram Relyea of the Eleventh Ward requested that a bump on Boulevard about 200 feet from the Tuberculosis Hospital entrance be repaired or a sign be placed along the approaches. This resolution was referred to the Board of Public Works.

A second resolution by Relyea calling attention to the presence of a bus on the sidewalk and city property on the southwest corner of South Wall street and Boulevard and asking the city to take action to have it removed by the persons responsible for it being there was also referred to the Board of Public Works. Relyea said the bus, which was being repaired, was "very annoying to people on South Wall street and compels people on the west side of the street to walk in the street."

Appearing to register complaints about the bus were Gerald F. Conrad of 362 South Wall street and W. Hoffay of 363 South Wall.

Sgt. Charles Awkerman of the local Marine recruiting station and Past Commandant Albert Melville of the Marine Corps League appeared before the building and supply committee relative to the use of city equipment for the appearance of the U. Under Discussion

The matter of store hours for the summer months has been under discussion by city merchants for about a month. Within that period of time the Wonderly Company announced its closing for the entire day on Mondays, and this was followed by the shoe repair shops closing the same day. Sometime ago the local barber and beauty shops announced a Monday closing, and most of the local jewelry stores have followed the practice of closing every Thursday afternoon for the past two months. Other merchants began talking about a shorter work-week for their employes, and various possibilities were mentioned.

Questionnaire was Sent

A questionnaire sent to member and non-member stores by the Uptown Business Men's Association asking merchants to express their preference for Monday closing, Thursday afternoon closing or Saturday afternoon closing. The questionnaires that were returned predominantly favored Monday closing, and an announcement to that effect was made.

Within a week, however, a number of stores reconsidered and at a special meeting held at Reade's Theatre, the matter of Monday closing was tabled.

A number of merchants, stating they still favored giving their employes additional time off during the summer, then began independently a canvass on the proposal to close Saturday afternoons, and that canvass resulted in today's announcement.

Meanwhile, its was learned, a number of store clerks had made inquiries of local labor leaders as to the possibilities of unionizing. Both AFL and CIO international retail sore unions became interested and investigations were begun in the area, but no further developments were reported today.

Anthony Alecca of 65 Gill street demonstrates two pieces of apparatus used by the Cerebral Palsy Clinic in the rehabilitation of stricken youngsters. The model for the so-called standing board—with elevator is Bernice Amato, 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Amato, next door neighbors of the Aleccas. Miss Amato enjoys perfect health, but, after some coaxing, consented to serve as the model. Alecca is holding what is known as a breath control—inclined plane panel. He built both items in the workshop in the basement of his home. Alecca has also done repair work on several clinic instruments in the past. The standing board and breath control panel were to be turned over to Mrs. Charlotte Peck at the clinic today. (Freeman Photo).

Indictment Refused

Trenton, N. J., July 15 (AP)—A federal grand jury today refused to indict retired rumrunner Abner (Longie) Zwillman on charges of income tax evasion. The jury, which considered a $55,114 tax evasion complaint against Zwillman, reported "no bill." The jury's report was handed to Federal Judge Phillip Forman in his chambers and made public shortly after. Arthur B. Cunningham, a special assistant to U. S. Attorney General Herbert W. Brownell, said the complaint would be vacated "sometime today." Cunningham handled the complaint for the government.

City Slicker Lights

Oklahoma City (AP)—A resident of rural Choctaw, charged with running a red light, pictured herself today as the victim of the complex big city traffic light system. "There's six traffic lights at that intersection," Mrs. Ruby Vern Lovell, 35, told the court. "I couldn't tell which was mine." "All you have to do is follow the one in front of you," advised Judge James Demopolos, and fined her $10.

Americans, ROKs Forced to Turn Guns

Central Front, July 15 (AP)—American and South Korean artillerymen captured by Chinese Communists were forced at gunpoint to fire shells at their Allied comrades, ROK army intelligence officers near the front said today.

U. S. officers acknowledged it was "definitely possible"—but found no confirmation for the reports.

Lt. Col. Choi Soo Kuen, chief of intelligence for the ROK Capitol Division, turned over the report to American advisers.

The report apparently was based on accounts of Korean artillerymen who were overrun but escaped capture during the week's big Communist offensive at the Kumsong bulge, an American officer said.

ROKs, Artillery

fantry toward newly-occupied positions.

As the overcast began to clear late Wednesday, Fifth Air Force stepped up blows against the Reds.

Bombs Are Dropped

Before that, fewer than 100 planes unloaded about 100 tons of bombs on Communist frontal areas from Kumsong to the east coast.

On the front, allied forces were fully alerted for further Red assaults. Units were sorted out and redeployed over the bloodied sector east of Kumhwa to the Pukhan river.

Muddy roads were clogged with supply trucks headed toward the front.

Some exhausted soldiers sprawled out asleep on the ground.

Others sat by the side of the road, opening blisters and washing swollen feet in muddy water.

Artillery fire fell off. American advisors with the ROKs said the Chinese apparently were moving up their artillery and mortars in support of new positions.

Enemy Is Sought

ROK soldiers continued searching for infiltrators left over from the big Red push. Two Chinese infiltrating units were shot up just before noon.

Gen. Taylor was accompanied to the front by ROK Chief of Staff Gen. Sun Yup Paik, ROK Defense Minister Adm. Sohn Won Il and Brig. Gen. George C. Rogers, chief of the Korean military advisory group.

The South Korean troops who bore the brunt of the Red attack received a personal message from President Syngman Rhee. He told his troops to stand firm and die if necessary to stop the Chinese invaders. Rhee praised them for the fight they have made and exhorted them to even greater efforts.

Four South Korean divisions reeled under the huge Red attack that started just before midnight Monday, but fought back valiantly. Both sides suffered heavy casualties.

"This is the grestest achievement of the ROK Army," one high-ranking allied officer said. "The four ROK divisions, with only partial help from American artillery and supply units, fought one of the great defensive battles and at noon it looks as if they had won it."

The Eighth Army today removed from the "permissive" list" all identification of units in the battle in an effort to confuse the Communists because of reshuffling and reinforcements.

However, it named the U. S. 45th Division as taking a small-scale attack west of Heartbreak Ridge.

Washington, July 15 (AP)—Four dozen Republican freshmen in the House plied President Eisenhower with food and questions last night and came away with comments like "stimulating" and "inspiring." "He certainly has learned an awful lot about politics in six months," said Rep. Gretella (R-Conn.). "He has a good grasp of all the problems of the world and the nation." Eisenhower was guest of honor at the get-together put on by the 48 first-term legislators. He spoke for a half hour, then answered questions for two hours.

He converted the contributed Mexican peso to American money and got 11 cents. Added to the alumni fund, the 11 cents rounded out the sum—made it $1,021,832.

'Freshmen' See President

Washington, July 15 (AP)—Four dozen Republican freshmen in the House plied President Eisenhower with food and questions last night and came away with comments like "stimulating" and "inspiring." "He certainly has learned an awful lot about politics in six months," said Rep. Gretella (R-Conn.). "He has a good grasp of all the problems of the world and the nation." Eisenhower was guest of honor at the get-together put on by the 48 first-term legislators. He spoke for a half hour, then answered questions for two hours.

Eight Persons Hurt

New York, July 15 (AP)—A sightseeing yacht carrying 169 passengers rammed a bridge piling in the Harlem river yesterday, then veered off and hit a pier. Eight persons were slightly injured. On Sunday another vessel, The Gotham, became stuck in the mud not far from the scene of yesterday's accident.

Peso Eases Things

New Haven, Conn., July 15 (AP) —A Mexican peso made things easier for Yale University bookkeepers who keep track of the alumni fund. When officials finished counting all the money received, they had $1,021,831.89 and the peso. But managing director Charles Watson, 3rd, fixed that. He converted the contributed Mexican peso to American money and got 11 cents. Added to the alumni fund, the 11 cents rounded out the sum—made it $1,021,832.

NO MORE BUYING FOR HER

A surprised friend writes: "A friend of mine who lives in the suburbs asked me to bring her a certain brand of cosmetics which she cannot get where she lives, when I go to spend the next week end with her. I had been, up to then, racking my brain to know what I might take for her and was delighted for the suggestion. When I handed her the package I told her it was a present, and would not accept the money. However, when I arrived home I found the exact amount I had spent in an envelope in one of the pockets of my coat. I was quite put out over it and thought it was a very unappreciative thing for her to do. Don't you agree, Mrs. Post, that she should have accepted it as a present and let it go at that."

Because she asked you to buy it for her, it would have been better to consider it a commission rather than turn it into a gift. You have now made it difficult for her to ask you to do any similar favor for her in the future.

An Unusual Last Name Question

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it proper to address a woman by her last name only, the way a man sometimes is?

Answer: It would be very strange, unless both women were at school together where girls were called by their last names. Once in a great while, the intimate friends of a sportswoman call her by last name; but more as a nickname and generally with a "y" added to it, such as "Smithy," "Brownie," "Jonesy," etc.

A Kind Intention Misunderstood

Dear Mrs. Post: I have been severely criticized for taking my own towels whenever I stay in someone's house for a week end. I am told it is an insult to the hostess. This may be so in a house that has service; but when the hostess does her own work, I think it shows consideration on the part of a guest to spare her any unnecessary work that is possible. I would very much like to have your opinion on this.

Answer: Personally, I cannot understand why your good intentions were misunderstood! However, since they evidently were, it will be best not to bring your own towels in the future.

Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. A model thank-you note is included in leaflet E-21, "Model Notes." To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P.O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

MRS. JOHN E. FINCH

Sharon Leaycraft Is Married At St. Joseph's Church

Miss Sharon Caroleen Leaycraft, daughter of Mrs. Frank Leaycraft and the late Mr. Leaycraft, 176 Ten Broeck avenue, was married to John Edward Finch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morton Finch, 177 Ten Broeck avenue, Sunday, 2:30 p. m. at St. Joseph's Church. The Rt. Rev. Monsignor Stephen P. Connelly officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Mrs. Rafferty, the organist played traditional wedding selections. The church was decorated with pink and white gladioli.

Given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Noble Garrison, the bride wore a floor length gown of white nylon tulle over taffeta, fashioned with a fitted bodice and a bouffant skirt terminating in a court train. The scooped neck was outlined with Swiss embroidery in a raised rose pattern with similar embroidery appliqued at waist. A tiara of seed pearls secured her finger tip veil of nylon tulle. She carried a cascade of white carnations and swansonia.

Mrs. James C. Martin, 267 Washington avenue, a college classmate of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a waltz length gown of mist green iced-silk organdie over net with pin-tucked bodice, bouffant skirt and satin accents. Her headpiece was a silver braided coronet entwined with summer flowers. She carried a cascade of red carnations and swansonia.

Dan Allen, 22 O'Neil street, brother-in-law of the groom, was best man. Francis Vertetis, 92 Florence street, and Robert Gardiner, 30 Fairmont avenue, were the ushers.

A reception for 85 guests was held at the Crystal Room of the Governor Clinton Hotel.

For the wedding trip through northern New York and the New England states, the bride chose a navy blue linen sheath dress with matching boxed jacket and white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Mrs. Finch is a graduate of Kingston High School and New Paltz State Teachers College. She was a member of Agonian sorority. She is on the faculty of the Kingston school system.

Mr. Finch is a graduate of Kingston High School and New Paltz State Teachers College where he was a member of Delta Kappa. Before entering New Paltz he served two years in the navy. He is a faculty member of the Kerhonkson school system.

MRS. JOHN E. FINCH

Sharon Leaycraft Is Married At St. Joseph's Church

Miss Sharon Caroleen Leaycraft, daughter of Mrs. Frank Leaycraft and the late Mr. Leaycraft, 176 Ten Broeck avenue, was married to John Edward Finch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morton Finch, 177 Ten Broeck avenue, Sunday, 2:30 p. m. at St. Joseph's Church. The Rt. Rev. Monsignor Stephen P. Connelly officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Mrs. Rafferty, the organist played traditional wedding selections. The church was decorated with pink and white gladioli.

Given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Noble Garrison, the bride wore a floor length gown of white nylon tulle over taffeta, fashioned with a fitted bodice and a bouffant skirt terminating in a court train. The scooped neck was outlined with Swiss embroidery in a raised rose pattern with similar embroidery appliqued at waist. A tiara of seed pearls secured her finger tip veil of nylon tulle. She carried a cascade of white carnations and swansonia.

Mrs. James C. Martin, 267 Washington avenue, a college classmate of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a waltz length gown of mist green iced-silk organdie over net with pin-tucked bodice, bouffant skirt and satin accents. Her headpiece was a silver braided coronet entwined with summer flowers. She carried a cascade of red carnations and swansonia.

Dan Allen, 22 O'Neil street, brother-in-law of the groom, was best man. Francis Vertetis, 92 Florence street, and Robert Gardiner, 30 Fairmont avenue, were the ushers.

A reception for 85 guests was held at the Crystal Room of the Governor Clinton Hotel.

For the wedding trip through northern New York and the New England states, the bride chose a navy blue linen sheath dress with matching boxed jacket and white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Mrs. Finch is a graduate of Kingston High School and New Paltz State Teachers College. She was a member of Agonian sorority. She is on the faculty of the Kingston school system.

Mr. Finch is a graduate of Kingston High School and New Paltz State Teachers College where he was a member of Delta Kappa. Before entering New Paltz he served two years in the navy. He is a faculty member of the Kerhonkson school system.

On their return the couple will make their home at 176 Ten Broeck avenue.

Iran Parliament Almost in Collapse

Tehran, Iran, July 15 (AP)—Iran's Parliament was closed down in virtual collapse today following the resignation of 27 deputies supporting Premier Mohammed Mossadegh. Their walkout left the aged premier to govern without any legislative interference.

With the resignations, the Majlis, Iran's remaining legislative house, was unable to muster a quorum (69 of its 79 members). Mossadegh dissolved the Senate last October.

The premier has announced he will hold a referendum on his policies and will resign if the public's vote does not back him up. He has not issued any plans for holding the referendum, however.

The parliamentary crisis came after months of wrangling over unprecedented powers granted Mossadegh last summer, permitting him to govern by decree.

Parliament has been paralyzed since February when the opposition, led by Ayatullah Seyed Abolghassem Kashani, fiery Moslem religious leader, began boycotting session after session. Only nine of the last 40 scheduled meetings have been held because of the lack of a quorum.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

One wonders what made the news back in 1850. I have the Ulster Republican, printed right in Kingston in the rooms over the bookstore of R. A. Chipp, opposite the Court House, by Solomon S. Hommel. One item reads: "There is a great emigration to Texas, about 500 per week have arrived at Galveston, and it is estimated that 25,000 have arrived during the present season, many bringing a large number of slaves." There is much talk nowadays that a man's life is prolonged to 65 and more. Back in 1850, the following items appeared: "In Overton, Tenn., the census taker found a lady named Stevens, whose age was 120 years. She was married at the time of Braddock's defeat. Her youngest son is a smart lad of 70 years." Another item reads: "One of Marion's men (Azarian Doty) now resides in Tennessee, aged 105." Another item on a different subject reads: "Col. Wm. S. Hamilton, the youngest son of the late Alexander Hamilton, died in Sacramento City, California, on the 7th of August, from a disease of the heart. He was four years old at the time of his father's death."

The following may interest those who are working on the subject of juvenile delinquency. "A notorious burglar named Tay, was sentenced to the penitentiary at Toronto for 20 years back in 1850. He made a speech to the Court, admitting the justice of his sentence, and begging that he might be taught a trade in prison; adding, that had he been brought up to a trade, he never would have been a thief.

Other items which appeared in the 1850 papers were: "Two men were shot in the back during the railroad riots in Rhinebeck." No doubt I will find more on the Rhinebeck railroad riots elsewhere. "On opening a bale of cotton in England, recently, (1850) a live cat was found, which from the emaciated appearance was supposed to have made the passage of the Atlantic in that manner. Cats get away with more pictures and news items than any other animals I know of, except perhaps race horses. A cat will do nothing for someone else, even mouse catching is just plain big game, hunting for the feline's own pleasure. When you ask your well fed cat to bring over even his paper plate for more cat food, he will only look wise and wink at you. You have to get the plate yourself. But give a cat a big turkey bone, and he may purr and be nice before, but once he gets the bone, off he carries it very carefully to a hidden corner. If you, his best friend, who buys him cat food, goes near him, all you'll get is a cat growl. Still more front covers of magazines show the "adorable pussycat.", even back in 1850, the cat made the news items.

Among the local news, it seems back at that time, there were many weekly accidental drownings in the D. and H. Canal. They tell of one on Friday, Dec. 6th, 1850—canal boat 551, laden with coal, was locked into tide water and secured to a pier at Eddyville. Another boat took a berth alongside, carrying her bow and stern fast over No. 551 to the pier. Anyway as the tide dropped around 4 a. m., lines pulled and turned both boats over in 14 foot of water. None of the sleepers on board were aroused and drowned in their cabins. They were: Jacob Vernooy, of Port Benjamin, 25; Jack and Thomas VanWagenen, brothers of Alligerville, aged 18 and 15.

Giant Photo Flare Caused Much Alarm

Washington, July 15 (AP) — The Air Force announced today a powerful new flare for night photography and said the device has been responsible for some of the reports of flying saucers in the past two years.

"Police and field officials were besieged with phone calls reporting flying saucers or planes going down in flames" when the 10 million candlepower flare was first tested secretly in 1951 near Windsor Locks, Conn., the Air Force said in a statement.

A test near Detroit also brought numerous calls from excited observers, the Air Force said.

Essentially the device is a giant magnesium flare, attached to the wing of a reconnaissance plane and controlled by the pilot.

As Pegler Sees It

let again asked why is communism never attacked; why are Poles and other Catholics being persecuted, never defended?

"'America,'" an official paper of the Jesuit order, "in an editorial, said we were uncharitable. The 'Commonweal,'" a mysterious left-wing lay periodical, ostensibly Catholic, "offered adverse comment. Doctor McMahon put us in the lunatic fringe. But the two Socialist papers, the 'Call' and the 'New Leader' did a public service.

"The 'Call' revealed the late Mr. Chapman as a fellow-traveler and the committee as a rather phoney outfit. The 'New Leader' discovered that the executive secretary of the committee was identified with seven Communist front groups.

"Now, ten years later, Senator Jenner has as a witness a key man in the committee who has been identified by others as a Red and refuses to deny that he was a member of a Communist cell. A week previously Thomas Davin, when asked if he had been active on the committee, refused to answer on the ground that a response 'might tend to incriminate me.' Another member, Julius H. Hlavaty, a New York public school teacher, refused to affirm or deny he was a Communist."

The same method is seen in the abuse of Matthews today. The enemy refused to discuss the issues. They only attacked the crusader for exposing the truth.

Must Give Plea

New York, July 15 (AP)—A police lieutenant, twice cited for excellent police work and high on the promotion list for captain, must plead tomorrow to charges he gave false answers in a departmental probe into subversive affiliations. Lt. Arthur Miller, 42, was accused yesterday of lying on July 2 when he answered questions dealing with Communist party affiliation. He then denied he ever was a party member or that he ever attended party meetings. Miller is the first police superior to be charged in the probe. A patrolman, Meyer Rubinstein, was fired after he admitted lying about his former Communist party membership.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

One wonders what made the news back in 1850. I have the Ulster Republican, printed right in Kingston in the rooms over the bookstore of R. A. Chipp, opposite the Court House, by Solomon S. Hommel. One item reads: 'There is a great emigration to Texas, about 500 per week have arrived at Galveston, and it is estimated that 25,000 have arrived during the present season, many bringing a large number of slaves." There is much talk nowadays that a man's life is prolonged to 65 and more. Back in 1850, the following items appeared: "In Overton, Tenn., the census taker found a lady named Stevens, whose age was 120 years. She was married at the time of Braddock's defeat. Her youngest son is a smart lad of 70 years." Another item reads: "One of Marion's men (Azarian Doty) now resides in Tennessee, aged 105." Another item on a different subject reads: "Col. Wm. S. Hamilton, the youngest son of the late Alexander Hamilton, died in Sacramento City, California, on the 7th of August, from a disease of the heart. He was four years old at the time of his father's death."

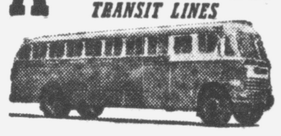

The following may interest those who are working on the subject of juvenile delinquency. "A notorious burglar named Tay, was sentenced to the penitentiary at Toronto for 20 years back in 1850. He made a speech to the Court, admitting the justice of his sentence, and begging that he might be taught a trade in prison; adding, that had he been brought up to a trade, he never would have been a thief.

Other items which appeared in the 1850 papers were: "Two men were shot in the back during the railroad riots in Rhinebeck." No doubt I will find more on the Rhinebeck railroad riots elsewhere. "On opening a bale of cotton in England, recently, (1850) a live cat was found, which from the emaciated appearance was supposed to have made the passage of the Atlantic in that manner. Cats get away with more pictures and news items than any other animals I know of, except perhaps race horses. A cat will do nothing for someone else, even mouse catching is just plain big game, hunting for the feline's own pleasure. When you ask your well fed cat to bring over even his paper plate for more cat food, he will only look wise and wink at you. You have to get the plate yourself. But give a cat a big turkey bone, and he may purr and be nice before, but once he gets the bone, off he carries it very carefully to a hidden corner. If you, his best friend, who buys him cat food, goes near him, all you'll get is a cat growl. Still more front covers of magazines show the "adorable pussycat.", even back in 1850, the cat made the news items.

Among the local news, it seems back at that time, there were many weekly accidental drownings in the D. and H. Canal. They tell of one on Friday, Dec. 6th, 1850—canal boat 551, laden with coal, was locked into tide water and secured to a pier at Eddyville. Another boat took a berth alongside, carrying her bow and stern fast over No. 551 to the pier. Anyway as the tide dropped around 4 a. m., lines pulled and turned both boats over in 14 foot of water. None of the sleepers on board were aroused and drowned in their cabins. They were: Jacob Vernooy, of Port Benjamin, 25; Jack and Thomas VanWagenen, brothers of Alligerville, aged 18 and 15.

Giant Photo Flare Caused Much Alarm

Washington, July 15 (AP) — The Air Force announced today a powerful new flare for night photography and said the device has been responsible for some of the reports of flying saucers in the past two years.

"Police and field officials were besieged with phone calls reporting flying saucers or planes going down in flames" when the 10 million candlepower flare was first tested secretly in 1951 near Windsor Locks, Conn., the Air Force said in a statement.

A test near Detroit also brought numerous calls from excited observers, the Air Force said.

Essentially the device is a giant magnesium flare, attached to the wing of a reconnaissance plane and controlled by the pilot.

As Pegler Sees It

let again asked why is communism never attacked; why are Poles and other Catholics being persecuted, never defended?

"'America,'" an official paper of the Jesuit order, "in an editorial, said we were uncharitable. The 'Commonweal,'" a mysterious left-wing lay periodical, ostensibly Catholic, "offered adverse comment. Doctor McMahon put us in the lunatic fringe. But the two Socialist papers, the 'Call' and the 'New Leader' did a public service.

"The 'Call' revealed the late Mr. Chapman as a fellow-traveler and the committee as a rather phoney outfit. The 'New Leader' discovered that the executive secretary of the committee was identified with seven Communist front groups.

"Now, ten years later, Senator Jenner has as a witness a key man in the committee who has been identified by others as a Red and refuses to deny that he was a member of a Communist cell. A week previously Thomas Davin, when asked if he had been active on the committee, refused to answer on the ground that a response 'might tend to incriminate me.' Another member, Julius H. Hlavaty, a New York public school teacher, refused to affirm or deny he was a Communist."

The same method is seen in the abuse of Matthews today. The enemy refused to discuss the issues. They only attacked the crusader for exposing the truth.

Must Give Plea

New York, July 15 (AP)—A police lieutenant, twice cited for excellent police work and high on the promotion list for captain, must plead tomorrow to charges he gave false answers in a departmental probe into subversive affiliations. Lt. Arthur Miller, 42, was accused yesterday of lying on July 2 when he answered questions dealing with Communist party affiliation. He then denied he ever was a party member or that he ever attended party meetings. Miller is the first police superior to be charged in the probe. A patrolman, Meyer Rubinstein, was fired after he admitted lying about his former Communist party membership.

Clark Mains Hurls 1-Hitter, Fans 11, in City League Game

Blanks Indians 16-0 in Surprise Start for Dairy

Only One Ball Hit Out of the Infield

Manager Johnny Schatzel of the Jones Dairy squad surprised the fans and confounded the Indians in yesterday's City League game at the Athletic Field.

He unveiled Clark Maines, the sailor on leave, as his starting pitcher and the former KHS pitching great responded with a classic performance.

You can't blame the Indians if they shared a secret wish that Clark was on the Big Mo anchored somewhere in the middle of the Pacific Ocean.

Fans 11 Batters

Working under wraps, the strapping Port Ewen right hander, who may some day wear the spangles of the New York Giants, merely tossed a one-hitter, struck out 11 and permitted only one ball to be hit out of the infield in the six-inning contest. The Joneses won it 16-0 with at least one run in every inning.

Fresh from a brilliant season with a Naval nine in the Washington, D. C., area, Mains pitched with finesse and class that thrilled the few hundred spectators who were fortunate enough to catch him in action.

While Clark was mystifying the Indians with that one-hitter and four assists from the mound, the Dairymen's refurbished lineup revealed itself as a solid contender for second half honors.

The only fair ball hit out of the infield against Mains was a looping triple along the right field line by Joe Ferraro in the fourth inning. Big Sal Misasi missed a diving catch at the sinking liner and it went for three bases. But Mains bore down and fanned Gordon and Emerson to retire the side and squelch the only threat against his shutout.

Gorsline Stays Hot

Meanwhile, the Dairymen clobbered Ronnie Brandt, Joe Ferraro and Bob Beaumont for 10 hits and had the further comfort of nine walks and six Indian miscues.

Red Gorsline, the Dairymen left fielder who pounded four hits in last Saturday's game at the stadium, continued to stay hotter than a Sahara heat wave as he stroked a double and two singles in four trips. Ronnie Mauro and Nippy Jones also got two hits apiece.

Assistant District Attorney James J. Abernethy issued the challenge in behalf of the Battling Barristers with the significant comment:

Detailed communiques are expected from both fronts in the near future.

Kid Gavilan Meets Fuentes Tonight

Milwaukee, July 15 (AP) — Kid Gavilan, the bolo-punching world welterweight champion, hasn't been too impressive in his last two bouts, a fact which bodes no good for Ramon Fuentes tonight.

Gavilan, the Cuban Hawk who can be very good when he wants to be, is expected to go all out when he takes on Fuentes, of Los Angeles, the eighth-ranking 147-pounder at the Milwaukee Arena.

It is a non-title affair scheduled for 10 rounds.

The match is the first Wisconsin boxing show to be televised nationally and will wind up a 10-round fight card. (9 p. m. EST.)

Mrs. Virginia Wood, a member of the Kingston Archery Club, won a first prize in the Instinctive Open Class for women with 163 points. She was one of four Kingston winners but her name was inadvertently omitted from Tuesday's resume of the New York State shoot held here Sunday.

Indians Stop Braves, 9-7 For Sixth Win

The second place Braves gave the league leading Indians the jitters, before yielding in yesterday's National Little League game, 9-7, at Hasbrouck Park.

A flying start in which they scored eight runs in the first two innings insured the sixth Indian victory and third Braves loss.

Norm Heppner held the Braves to five hits but walked nine to have a hectic time. He also fanned nine. The Indians collected 8 hits off Robert Coughlin and Henry Schatzel.

William Murphy, Indian shortstop, slugged a double and two singles and Sam Perry singled and doubled. Terry Corkery and Henry Schatzel each had a double and single for the Braves.

Nationals Grab Fourth Straight All Star Game

Hurlers Dominate Annual Classic

Cincinnati, July 15 (AP)—Has the All-Star injury jinx struck again?

Casey Stengel was a mighty worried man today as he took his league leading New York Yankees into St. Louis for a three-game series.

News that Mickey Mantle found it painful to walk following the aggravation of a pulled leg muscle in yesterday's All-Star game was even more distressing to the grizzled pilot than the American League's 5-1 defeat at the hands of the Nationals.

The pain was so severe that Mantle may not be able to play against the Browns tomorrow night. The switch hitting star won't be sure until before game time but all he knows is that his leg is "hurtin'."

Stengel was blaming himself today for Mantle's re-injury. He permitted Mickey to play in the All-Star game against his better judgment. It wasn't until five minutes before the start of the game that Casey decided to yield to Mantle's insistence on playing.

"I'm starting Mantle in centerfield," Casey told reporters just before the game, "because he assured me he is all right and wants to play. However, as soon as I see the slightest indication that the leg is bothering him. I'll yank him out of the game."

In the seventh inning, Mickey hit a sharp force play grounder to shortstop and, in putting on speed to avert a double play, re-injured his left leg. The young slugger was playing with a taped leg, hurt for the first time two weeks ago, and re-injured last Sunday against Washington.

Pitchers Dominate

The crowd of 30,846 cash customers saw a game entirely different from what they had anticipated. Expecting to see the sluggers knock down the Crosley Field fences, the fans saw instead the pitchers all but completely dominate the hitters. No home runs were hit for the first time since 1944. There wasn't even a measly triple. The only extra base hit was a two-bagger by Pee Wee Reese that could have been held to a single with sharper fielding.

In all, 15 hits were made, 10 by the victors. Robin Roberts, Warren Spahn, Curt Simmons and Murray Dickson, in that order, held the American Leaguers to five singles. They had a two-hit shutout until the ninth when singles by Ferris Fain, pinch hitter Johnny Mize and Minnie Minoso off Dickson provided the only AL run.

The defeat was the fourth straight for the American League as well as for Stengel, who has yet to win an All-Star game. The Yankee manager has more luck in the fall, however, as his four world series triumphs attest. The American League still holds a 12-8 edge after the 20th game.

Slaughter Stars

The National League attack was paced by Enos Slaughter and Reese, a pair of veteran All-Star performers. The 37-year-man in All-Star play, gave his greatest performance. The old warhorse rapped two hits, drove in a run and scored two. He also stole a base and electrified the crowd with a brilliant diving catch of a drive by Detroit's Harvey Kuenn in the sixth inning.

Reese, hitless in eight previous All-Star games, drove in two runs with a single and double. Stan Musial got two hits but they didn't figure in the scoring.

The Phillies' Richie Ashburn also contributed to the National League's scoring. His pinch single off loser Allie Reynolds drove in the first of two fifth inning tallies and broke a scoreless deadlock. Dickson drove in the final Nationals' run with a single off Satchel Paige in the eighth. The hit followed singles by Roy Campanella and Slaughter.

The Americans received shutout pitching from southpaw Billy Pierce to match three scoreless innings of pitching by Robin Roberts. Each allowed only one hit. Spahn, who received credit for the victory, hurled two hitless innings before giving way to pinch hitter Ashburn. Simmons permitted one hit in the two innings he pitched.

Miami Beach, Fla.—Del Flanagan, 146¾, St. Paul, outpointed Willie Pastrano, 154, New Orleans, 8.

Clark Mains Hurls 1-Hitter, Fans 11, in City League Game

Blanks Indians 16-0 in Surprise Start for Dairy

Only One Ball Hit Out of the Infield

Manager Johnny Schatzel of the Jones Dairy squad surprised the fans and confounded the Indians in yesterday's City League game at the Athletic Field.

He unveiled Clark Maines, the sailor on leave, as his starting pitcher and the former KHS pitching great responded with a classic performance.

You can't blame the Indians if they shared a secret wish that Clark was on the Big Mo anchored somewhere in the middle of the Pacific Ocean.

Fans 11 Batters

Working under wraps, the strapping Port Ewen right hander, who may some day wear the spangles of the New York Giants, merely tossed a one-hitter, struck out 11 and permitted only one ball to be hit out of the infield in the six-inning contest. The Joneses won it 16-0 with at least one run in every inning.

Fresh from a brilliant season with a Naval nine in the Washington, D. C., area, Mains pitched with finesse and class that thrilled the few hundred spectators who were fortunate enough to catch him in action.

While Clark was mystifying the Indians with that one-hitter and four assists from the mound, the Dairymen's refurbished lineup revealed itself as a solid contender for second half honors.

The only fair ball hit out of the infield against Mains was a looping triple along the right field line by Joe Ferraro in the fourth inning. Big Sal Misasi missed a diving catch at the sinking liner and it went for three bases. But Mains bore down and fanned Gordon and Emerson to retire the side and squelch the only threat against his shutout.

Gorsline Stays Hot

Meanwhile, the Dairymen clobbered Ronnie Brandt, Joe Ferraro and Bob Beaumont for 10 hits and had the further comfort of nine walks and six Indian miscues.

Red Gorsline, the Dairymen left fielder who pounded four hits in last Saturday's game at the stadium, continued to stay hotter than a Sahara heat wave as he stroked a double and two singles in four trips. Ronnie Mauro and Nippy Jones also got two hits apiece.

Kid Gavilan Meets Fuentes Tonight

Milwaukee, July 15 (AP) — Kid Gavilan, the bolo-punching world welterweight champion, hasn't been too impressive in his last two bouts, a fact which bodes no good for Ramon Fuentes tonight.

Gavilan, the Cuban Hawk who can be very good when he wants to be, is expected to go all out when he takes on Fuentes, of Los Angeles, the eighth-ranking 147-pounder at the Milwaukee Arena.

It is a non-title affair scheduled for 10 rounds.

The match is the first Wisconsin boxing show to be televised nationally and will wind up a 10-round fight card. (9 p. m. EST.)

Won Archery Prize

Indians Stop Braves, 9-7 For Sixth Win

The second place Braves gave the league leading Indians the jitters, before yielding in yesterday's National Little League game, 9-7, at Hasbrouck Park.

A flying start in which they scored eight runs in the first two innings insured the sixth Indian victory and third Braves loss.

Norm Heppner held the Braves to five hits but walked nine to have a hectic time. He also fanned nine. The Indians collected 8 hits off Robert Coughlin and Henry Schatzel.

William Murphy, Indian shortstop, slugged a double and two singles and Sam Perry singled and doubled. Terry Corkery and Henry Schatzel each had a double and single for the Braves.

Nationals Grab Fourth Straight All Star Game

Hurlers Dominate Annual Classic

Cincinnati, July 15 (AP)—Has the All-Star injury jinx struck again?

Casey Stengel was a mighty worried man today as he took his league leading New York Yankees into St. Louis for a three-game series.

News that Mickey Mantle found it painful to walk following the aggravation of a pulled leg muscle in yesterday's All-Star game was even more distressing to the grizzled pilot than the American League's 5-1 defeat at the hands of the Nationals.

The pain was so severe that Mantle may not be able to play against the Browns tomorrow night. The switch hitting star won't be sure until before game time but all he knows is that his leg is "hurtin'."

Stengel was blaming himself today for Mantle's re-injury. He permitted Mickey to play in the All-Star game against his better judgment. It wasn't until five minutes before the start of the game that Casey decided to yield to Mantle's insistence on playing.

"I'm starting Mantle in centerfield," Casey told reporters just before the game, "because he assured me he is all right and wants to play. However, as soon as I see the slightest indication that the leg is bothering him. I'll yank him out of the game."

In the seventh inning, Mickey hit a sharp force play grounder to shortstop and, in putting on speed to avert a double play, re-injured his left leg. The young slugger was playing with a taped leg, hurt for the first time two weeks ago, and re-injured last Sunday against Washington.

Pitchers Dominate

The crowd of 30,846 cash customers saw a game entirely different from what they had anticipated. Expecting to see the sluggers knock down the Crosley Field fences, the fans saw instead the pitchers all but completely dominate the hitters. No home runs were hit for the first time since 1944. There wasn't even a measly triple. The only extra base hit was a two-bagger by Pee Wee Reese that could have been held to a single with sharper fielding.

In all, 15 hits were made, 10 by the victors. Robin Roberts, Warren Spahn, Curt Simmons and Murray Dickson, in that order, held the American Leaguers to five singles. They had a two-hit shutout until the ninth when singles by Ferris Fain, pinch hitter Johnny Mize and Minnie Minoso off Dickson provided the only AL run.

The defeat was the fourth straight for the American League as well as for Stengel, who has yet to win an All-Star game. The Yankee manager has more luck in the fall, however, as his four world series triumphs attest. The American League still holds a 12-8 edge after the 20th game.

Slaughter Stars

The National League attack was paced by Enos Slaughter and Reese, a pair of veteran All-Star performers. The 37-year-old Slaughter, now a 10-year-man in All-Star play, gave his greatest performance. The old warhorse rapped two hits, drove in a run and scored two. He also stole a base and electrified the crowd with a brilliant diving catch of a drive by Detroit's Harvey Kuenn in the sixth inning.

Reese, hitless in eight previous All-Star games, drove in two runs with a single and double. Stan Musial got two hits but they didn't figure in the scoring.

The Phillies' Richie Ashburn also contributed to the National League's scoring. His pinch single off loser Allie Reynolds drove in the first of two fifth inning tallies and broke a scoreless deadlock. Dickson drove in the final Nationals' run with a single off Satchel Paige in the eighth. The hit followed singles by Roy Campanella and Slaughter.

The Americans received shutout pitching from southpaw Billy Pierce to match three scoreless innings of pitching by Robin Roberts. Each allowed only one hit. Spahn, who received credit for the victory, hurled two hitless innings before giving way to pinch hitter Ashburn. Simmons permitted one hit in the two innings he pitched.

Miami Beach, Fla.—Del Flanagan, 146¾, St. Paul, outpointed Willie Pastrano, 134, New Orleans, 8.

Bob Short Hurls Perfect No-Hitter, Fans 16 Batters in Esopus LL Game

Bob Short, the 10-year-old right hander who has been burning up the Town of Esopus Little League, achieved almost absolute pitching perfection yesterday, when he tossed a no-hit, no-run, 16-0 shutout against the Dodgers.

Short, who recently fanned 16 batters, matched that total in facing only 18 batters, the absolute minimum for six innings.

He fanned 16 batters, tossed out another on a tap to the box and retired the 18th batter on a popup to the infield.

A one-man gang, who can catch as well as he can pitch, Short also contributed a triple and two singles to the Indians nine-hit attack on four Dodger pitchers.

The Indians marched to their second straight win of the second half by racking up seven runs in the first inning, three runs in the second and third and single tallies the rest of the way.

John Reinhardt, the Indian shortstop, contributed a single and double to the Indian attack.

Red Sox Trounce Giants, 11-3 To Tie Dodgers in 2nd Round

Tom Cragan Hits Three-Run Homer

The first half champion Red Sox clobbered the Giants yesterday, 11-3, to tie the second round and set the stage for Thursday's climactic contest with the Dodgers.

Both clubs have a 5-2 record after the Sox scored in every inning against the Giants, who were dropping their sixth game of the round.

Don Krueger got a shaky start for the Sox but held a 4-3 lead when he was relieved by Charlie Boice, bellwether of the staff. Boice hurled three scoreless rounds while keeping himself eligible for the payoff game against the Dodgers.

Pitchers Star

Boice and Krueger also set the batting tempo for the Sox, clubbing three hits apiece. Boice had a pair of doubles and Krueger hit one. Jim Cullum doubled and singled and Frank Sammons had a pair of singles.

Biggest blow of the game was Tom Cragan's three-run homer in the fourth. It was a high shot that arched over the fence close to the field foul line.

The four Giant safeties went to Timmy Fisher, a double; Bob Strong, Joe Schrowang and Joe Uhl.

Bob Short Hurls Perfect No-Hitter, Fans 16 Batters in Esopus LL Game

Bob Short, the 10-year-old right hander who has been burning up the Town of Esopus Little League, achieved almost absolute pitching perfection yesterday, when he tossed a no-hit, no-run, 16-0 shutout against the Dodgers.

Short, who recently fanned 16 batters, matched that total in facing only 18 batters, the absolute minimum for six innings.

He fanned 16 batters, tossed out another on a tap to the box and retired the 18th batter on a popup to the infield.

A one-man gang, who can catch as well as he can pitch, Short also contributed a triple and two singles to the Indians nine-hit attack on four Dodger pitchers.

The Indians marched to their second straight win of the second half by racking up seven runs in the first inning, three runs in the second and third and single tallies the rest of the way.

John Reinhardt, the Indian shortstop, contributed a single and double to the Indian attack.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT. Jr.

Mr. Pim Is New Theatre Offering

Woodstock, July 15—A. A. Milne's gentle comedy of errors and manners, which opened Tuesday night, provides a highly pleasant experience in theatre going at the Woodstock Playhouse this week. On a quiet summer afternoon Mr. Pim, on an inconsequential errand passes for a short time through the morning-room at Marden House, Buckinghamshire, and turns the normally placid life of the English family into a whirlpool of consternation.

As the conservative yet bombastic George Marden, J. P., whose actions are guided by the law, his social sphere, the bishop and his conscience, newcomer to the Playhouse, Carl Harbord turns in a first rate performance. Betty Low, as his gracious mate, whose poise remains unshaken by the revival of a reprobate first husband, is a winning and thoroughly lovely Olivia Marden.

Another new personality, Lynn Olwin play's Dinah, Marden's ward with gaiety and exuberance, an engaging foil for her serious young suitor, Brian Strange, played by Louis Criss, who paints triangular clouds and has some political convictions of his own.

Taylor Graves as the bumbling Mr. Pim strikes the right note as the addled but well-meaning old traveler, and Edith Gresham is a dominant Lady Marden determined to uphold the "right course of action."

Mr. Pim Passes By does little more than prove that accepted social standards hang by a fragile balance and that dead first husbands are better left to rest in peace, but it is a story charmingly told. Once more director Philip Robinson demonstrates his talent for pointing out the subtle shades of emotion and human behavior.

Individuality Noted At Town House Show

Woodstock, July 15—It is obvious from the 24 canvases included in the exhibition of paintings by students of Mark Vukovic, which opened last Friday at the Town House, that the individuality of each artist is developed by their teacher. While the paintings for the most part are in a colorful vein, each artist has been allowed to go his own way.

Among the works especially noted were Rita Hennegan's interesting still life, an excellent flower piece of lilacs by Sally Halpert and a fine portrait of Mrs. S. Stycos by Iris Bogoson. All of the above are from Saugerties.

From Woodstock and Kingston are Betty Bauman who is showing her appealing Fuzzy-Flowers, Ella Arnold who is represented in Al son, Charlie, Senior. A fine view of The Overlook has been contributed by Marjorie Delatour, and Anna Smallen's Woodstock Landseape is arresting. Zena Reservoir by Elsie Lipton presents another characteristic vista.

The exhibition will be on view through July 24.

Stylized Paintings On View at Square

Woodstock, July 15—A highly stylized group of paintings by Reidar Neilsen, Ellenville artist, opened Monday night with a reception at Parnassus Square. Neilsen, who works in clear, cool colors has a wealth of subject matter, landscapes, seascapes, still lifes, and figures, and whether he works in oil or water color he achieves the same transparent quality in his tones. He turns frequently to the use of triangles and squares to achieve unusual effects.

Light in key and freshly painted, Neilsen has chosen pleasant and appealing subjects and pointed them up with a decorative technique.

The show will be on view through July 26. The gallery is open daily from 10 to 12 a. m. and from 2 to 6 p. m., and from 1 to 5 p. m. on Sundays.

Tabuena Opens Second One-Man Paint Show

Woodstock, July 15—The second one-man show of paintings by Romeo Tabuena, Philippine artist, is now on view at the Catskill Book and Record Shop. A group of watercolors were shown last summer, and this year Tabuena is exhibiting a collection of oils. In his unusual canvases is combined the best in Oriental and Occidental tradition.

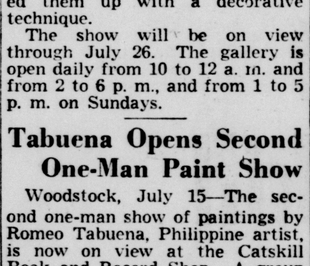

Tabuena is scheduled to hold a one-man show of his paintings at the Associated American Artists gallery in New York in September, and his work will also be shown this fall at the United Nations building in New York.

Village Notes

Woodstock, July 15—Miss Elizabeth Nee Weil, of Freeport, L. I., was the weekend guest of Mr. and Mrs. Vere E. Nessel at their home on the Saugerties-Woodstock road.

R. McDonald Brown was given a surprise birthday dinner at the Town House Sunday evening by members of the Woodstock Playhouse staff, cast and crew.

Two Are Injured Near River Road

Two persons were injured when a car left Route 9W near the intersection of the River road, Ulster Park, at about 5 p. m., yesterday.

Deputy Sheriff Chester Wolven, who investigated, said Martin Feurstein, of 393 West End avenue, New York was making a right turn from Route 9W into the River road when the car struck a soft shoulder and he lost control.

The car climbed a bank and overturned about 50 feet out in a field, Wolven said.

Injured and taken to Kingston Hospital were Feurstein, who suffered a lip laceration and Ellen Matilda Tabah, 18, of 65-18 110th street, Forest Hills, who was treated for lacerations of the right wrist, cuts and bruises.

Townsend Goes to Belgium

London, July 15 (AP)—Princess Margaret's reported romantic interest, Group Captain Peter Townsend, went off to a new job in Belgium by a secret route today. He left town two days before the princess is due home from an African tour. Townsend, 38-year-old divorced airman, has been named air attache at the British embassy in Brussels after nine years as a palace equerry. Some British newspapers have accused officialdom of "exiling" the handsome World War 2 hero because the Church of England frowns on remarriages by divorced persons, especially to royalty. Official sources refused to give any information on the route Townsend took to Brussels.

Seven Die in Riots

Paris, July 15 (AP)—French deputies today called for a debate in the National Assembly on Bastille Day riots in which seven persons were killed and 85 injured. Police and 2,000 North Africans clashed during a Communist-led workers parade in the Place de la Nation yesterday. Deputies said they would call tomorrow on Leon Martinaud-Desplats, minister of interior, to explain why he had not assigned a larger police force to the parade. The Ministry of Interior opened its own inquiry into the riots, in which police said they were forced to shoot to protect themselves. Eighteen policemen were injured seriously.

Youthful Stargazer

Dallas, Tex. (AP)—Visitors at the home of 14-year-old Harrison Sarrafian are a little startled when he flicks a switch and 1,500 stars in 889 constellations appear on the living room ceiling. It took the junior high school student a year to build the instrument—a dodecahedron planetarium. During that time he taught himself German because many of the best books on astronomy are by German scientists. "I started studying the stars when I was six, but I didn't get serious about it until I was nine," Harrison explains.

Committee Starts Work

Trenton, N. J., July 15 (AP)—A special legislative committee which conducted a four-month inquiry into crime and politics in New Jersey has started work on its formal report. The committee, headed by State Senator Harold W. Hannold (R-Gloucester), met yesterday in the first of a series of private sessions to prepare a report. Hannold said after the meeting the expected work on the report to the Legislature would be done by the end of this month.

Couple Is Killed At Vacation's End

Terryville, Conn., July 15 (AP)—A Brooklyn, N. Y., couple returning from a vacation trip to Cape Cod, Mass., was killed here early today in an automobile accident which injured six other persons.

Mrs. Margaret La Clair, 60, of 1445 59th street, Brooklyn, was instantly killed, state police said, when the car, operated by Mrs. Mary Burke, 38, of Carmel, N. Y., left the road on a curve on Route 6 and struck three trees.

Her husband, Joseph La Clair, 58, died after being admitted to Bristol Hospital with multiple fractures.

Critically injured were Steven Burke, 38, husband of the driver, and their 6-year-old daughter, Mary Katherine, both of whom are on the hospital's danger list.

The extent of their hurts has not been determined. State police said both were thrown from the vehicle.

Others Injured

Also injured were Mrs. Burke, the driver, her two other children, William, 11, and Denis, 9; and her mother Mrs. Mary Beary, 72, also of Carmel.

A hospital spokesman said none was seriously hurt, although Mrs. Beary suffered chest and shoulder injuries.

State Policeman Daniel Riordan of the Litchfield barracks, who investigated, said the cause of the accident was not immediately determined.

He said the accident happened on a curve at the top of a grade in a section of Route 6 that was shrouded with fog. No other car was believed by Riordan to have been involved.

He quoted Mrs. Burke as saying the party was returning from a vacation on Cape Cod.

Southern Illinois frequently is called Egypt because of its fancied resemblance to the Nile country.

Seeding Machine

Hartford, Conn. (AP)—New embankments on Connecticut highways are protected from erosion with the aid of a machine designed and built by employes of the State Highway Department. It is mounted on a truck and blows a mixture of water, fertilizer and quick-growing grass seeds into the slopes.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, Jr.

Mr. Pim Is New Theatre Offering

Woodstock, July 15—A. A. Milne's gentle comedy of errors and manners, which opened Tuesday night, provides a highly pleasant experience in theatre going at the Woodstock Playhouse this week. On a quiet summer afternoon Mr. Pim, on an inconsequential errand passes for a short time through the morning-room at Marden House, Buckinghamshire, and turns the normally placid life of the English family into a whirlpool of consternation.

As the conservative yet bombastic George Marden, J. P., whose actions are guided by the law, his social sphere, the bishop and his conscience, newcomer to the Playhouse, Carl Harbord turns in a first rate performance. Betty Low, as his gracious mate, whose poise remains unshaken by the revival of a reprobate first husband, is a winning and thoroughly lovely Olivia Marden.

Another new personality, Lynn Olwin play's Dinah, Marden's ward with gaiety and exuberance, an engaging foil for her serious young suitor, Brian Strange, played by Louis Criss, who paints triangular clouds and has some political convictions of his own.

Taylor Graves as the bumbling Mr. Pim strikes the right note as the addled but well-meaning old traveler, and Edith Gresham is a dominant Lady Marden determined to uphold the "right course of action."

Mr. Pim Passes By does little more than prove that accepted social standards hang by a fragile balance and that dead first husbands are better left to rest in peace, but it is a story charmingly told. Once more director Philip Robinson demonstrates his talent for pointing out the subtle shades of emotion and human behavior.

Individuality Noted At Town House Show

Woodstock, July 15—It is obvious from the 24 canvases included in the exhibition of paintings by students of Mark Vukovic, which opened last Friday at the Town House, that the individuality of each artist is developed by their teacher. While the paintings for the most part are in a colorful vein, each artist has been allowed to go his own way.

Among the works especially noted were Rita Hennegan's interesting still life, an excellent flower piece of lilacs by Sally Halpert and a fine portrait of Mrs. S. Stycos by Iris Bogoson. All of the above are from Saugerties.

From Woodstock and Kingston are Betty Bauman who is showing her appealing Fuzzy-Flowers, Ella Arnold who is represented in Al son, Charlie, Senior. A fine view of The Overlook has been contributed by Marjorie Delatour, and Anna Smallen's Woodstock Landscape is arresting. Zena Reservoir by Elsie Lipton presents another characteristic vista.

The exhibition will be on view through July 24.

Stylized Paintings On View at Square

Woodstock, July 15—A highly stylized group of paintings by Reidar Neilsen, Ellenville artist, opened Monday night with a reception at Parnassus Square. Neilsen, who works in clear, cool colors has a wealth of subject matter, landscapes, seascapes, still lifes, and figures, and whether he works in oil or water color he achieves the same transparent quality in his tones. He turns frequently to the use of triangles and squares to achieve unusual effects.

Light in key and freshly painted, Neilsen has chosen pleasant and appealing subjects and pointed them up with a decorative technique.

The show will be on view through July 26. The gallery is open daily from 10 to 12 a. m. and from 2 to 6 p. m., and from 1 to 5 p. m. on Sundays.

Tabuena Opens Second One-Man Paint Show

Woodstock, July 15—The second one-man show of paintings by Romeo Tabuena, Philippine artist, is now on view at the Catskill Book and Record Shop. A group of watercolors were shown last summer, and this year Tabuena is exhibiting a collection of oils. In his unusual canvases is combined the best in Oriental and Occidental tradition.

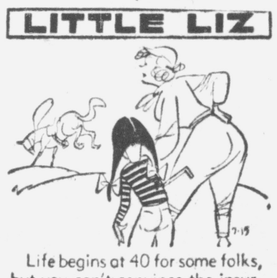

Tabuena is scheduled to hold a one-man show of his paintings at the Associated American Artists gallery in New York in September, and his work will also be shown this fall at the United Nations building in New York.

Village Notes

Woodstock, July 15—Miss Elizabeth Nee Weil, of Freeport, L. I., was the weekend guest of Mr. and Mrs. Vere E. Nessel at their home on the Saugerties-Woodstock road.

R. McDonald Brown was given a surprise birthday dinner at the Town House Sunday evening by members of the Woodstock Playhouse staff, cast and crew.

Two Are Injured Near River Road

Two persons were injured when a car left Route 9W near the intersection of the River road, Ulster Park, at about 5 p. m., yesterday.

Deputy Sheriff Chester Wolven, who investigated, said Martin Feurstein, of 393 West End avenue, New York was making a right turn from Route 9W into the River road when the car struck a soft shoulder and he lost control.

The car climbed a bank and overturned about 50 feet out in a field, Wolven said.

Injured and taken to Kingston Hospital were Feurstein, who suffered a lip laceration and Ellen Matilda Tabah, 18, of 65-18 110th street, Forest Hills, who was treated for lacerations of the right wrist, cuts and bruises.

Townsend Goes to Belgium

London, July 15 (AP)—Princess Margaret's reported romantic interest, Group Captain Peter Townsend, went off to a new job in Belgium by a secret route today. He left town two days before the princess is due home from an African tour. Townsend, 38-year-old divorced airman, has been named air attache at the British embassy in Brussels after nine years as a palace equerry. Some British newspapers have accused officialdom of "exiling" the handsome World War 2 hero because the Church of England frowns on remarriages by divorced persons, especially to royalty. Official sources refused to give any information on the route Townsend took to Brussels.

Seven Die in Riots

Paris, July 15 (AP)—French deputies today called for a debate in the National Assembly on Bastille Day riots in which seven persons were killed and 85 injured. Police and 2,000 North Africans clashed during a Communist-led workers parade in the Place de la Nation yesterday. Deputies said they would call tomorrow on Leon Martinaud-Desplats, minister of interior, to explain why he had not assigned a larger police force to the parade. The Ministry of Interior opened its own inquiry into the riots, in which police said they were forced to shoot to protect themselves. Eighteen policemen were injured seriously.

Youthful Stargazer

Dallas, Tex. (AP)—Visitors at the home of 14-year-old Harrison Sarrafian are a little startled when he flicks a switch and 1,500 stars in 889 constellations appear on the living room ceiling. It took the junior high school student a year to build the instrument—a dodecahedron planetarium. During that time he taught himself German because many of the best books on astronomy are by German scientists. "I started studying the stars when I was six, but I didn't get serious about it until I was nine," Harrison explains.

Committee Starts Work

Trenton, N. J., July 15 (AP)—A special legislative committee which conducted a four-month inquiry into crime and politics in New Jersey has started work on its formal report. The committee, headed by State Senator Harold W. Hannold (R-Gloucester), met yesterday in the first of a series of private sessions to prepare a report. Hannold said after the meeting the expected work on the report to the Legislature would be done by the end of this month.

Couple Is Killed At Vacation's End

Terryville, Conn., July 15 (AP)—A Brooklyn, N. Y., couple returning from a vacation trip to Cape Cod, Mass., was killed here early today in an automobile accident which injured six other persons.

Mrs. Margaret La Clair, 60, of 1445 59th street, Brooklyn, was instantly killed, state police said, when the car, operated by Mrs. Mary Burke, 38, of Carmel, N. Y., left the road on a curve on Route 6 and struck three trees.

Her husband, Joseph La Clair, 58, died after being admitted to Bristol Hospital with multiple fractures.

Critically injured were Steven Burke, 38, husband of the driver, and their 6-year-old daughter, Mary Katherine, both of whom are on the hospital's danger list.

The extent of their hurts has not been determined, State police said both were thrown from the vehicle.

Others Injured

Also injured were Mrs. Burke, the driver, her two other children, William, 11, and Denis, 9; and her mother Mrs. Mary Beary, 72, also of Carmel.

A hospital spokesman said none was seriously hurt, although Mrs. Beary suffered chest and shoulder injuries.

State Policeman Daniel Riordan of the Litchfield barracks, who investigated, said the cause of the accident was not immediately determined.

He said the accident happened on a curve at the top of a grade in a section of Route 6 that was shrouded with fog. No other car was believed by Riordan to have been involved.

He quoted Mrs. Burke as saying the party was returning from a vacation on Cape Cod.

Southern Illinois frequently is called Egypt because of its fancied resemblance to the Nile country.

Woman Is Held In Purse Switch

New York, July 15 (AP)—A 25-year-old woman accused of swindling a New Jerseyan out of $3,000 in the old "pocketbook switch" trick was being held in $2,500 bail today pending extradition proceedings.

The defendant, Miss Betty Jones of 151 West 118th street, is wanted on the complaint of Mrs. Julia Driminal, 65, of Milltown, N. J.

Mrs. Driminal told police that in New Brunswick, N. J., she gave Miss Jones $3,000 as "security" for sharing the contents of a wallet supposedly found on the streets.

The wallet contained only worthless slips of paper.

Miss Jones was arrested on a fugitive warrant issued by New Brunswick police.

Another charge against Miss Jones based on a similar complaint brought by Esther Newhoff of Elmont, Long Island, was dismissed for lack of evidence yesterday by Magistrate Thomas H. Cullen, Jr.

The local case involved a charge of grand larceny against Miss Jones who was accused of swindling the Long Island woman out of $1,000 last March 30 with a similar wallet hoax on a Manhattan street.

Miss Jones was held in a total of $5,000 bail on both charges but the bail was cut to $2,500 with the dismissal of the local complaint.

Cullen set July 28 for the extradition proceedings.

Most of Nation Has Pleasant Weather Today

(By The Associated Press)

A pleasant summer day was the outlook for most of the country today, although it was hotter than normal in the Rocky Mountain region.

Rain and thundershowers hit the Rockies during the night but temperatures continued above seasonal levels. Light rain fell along the New England coast. Heavy fog was reported early today in sections of the Great Lakes area. Thunderstorms hit Key West, Fla., yesterday, with rainfall measuring nearly two inches in six hours.

High temperatures over most of the nation yesterday—were in the 80s and 90s. Hot spots in the Rocky Mountain states were Sheridan, Wyo., with 102 and Havre, Mont., on the Canadian border, with 104. The day's topmark was 106 at Daggett, Calif. The far southwest continued hot.

The planet Mercury is about 36 million miles from the sun compared to about 93 million for the earth.

Woman Is Held In Purse Switch

New York, July 15 (AP)—A 25-year-old woman accused of swindling a New Jerseyan out of $3,000 in the old "pocketbook switch" trick was being held in $2,500 bail today pending extradition proceedings.

The defendant, Miss Betty Jones of 151 West 118th street, is wanted on the complaint of Mrs. Julia Driminal, 65, of Milltown, N. J.

Mrs. Driminal told police that in New Brunswick, N. J., she gave Miss Jones $3,000 as "security" for sharing the contents of a wallet supposedly found on the streets.

The wallet contained only worthless slips of paper.

Miss Jones was arrested on a fugitive warrant issued by New Brunswick police.

Another charge against Miss Jones based on a similar complaint brought by Esther Newhoff of Elmont, Long Island, was dismissed for lack of evidence yesterday by Magistrate Thomas H. Cullen, Jr.

The local case involved a charge of grand larceny against Miss Jones who was accused of swindling the Long Island woman out of $1,000 last March 30 with a similar wallet hoax on a Manhattan street.

Miss Jones was held in a total of $5,000 bail on both charges but the bail was cut to $2,500 with the dismissal of the local complaint.

Cullen set July 28 for the extradition proceedings.

Do Drop Inn

Springfield, Vt. (AP)—A man arraigned for intoxication was asked by Judge Kenneth Robinson where he lived. The man replied "I make my home wherever I happen to be, your honor." Then he added, "And you'll most always find me at home."

Most of Nation Has Pleasant Weather Today

(By The Associated Press)

A pleasant summer day was the outlook for most of the country today, although it was hotter than normal in the Rocky Mountain region.

Rain and thundershowers hit the Rockies during the night but temperatures continued above seasonal levels. Light rain fell along the New England coast. Heavy fog was reported early today in sections of the Great Lakes area. Thunderstorms hit Key West, Fla., yesterday, with rainfall measuring nearly two inches in six hours.

High temperatures over most of the nation yesterday—were in the 80s and 90s. Hot spots in the Rocky Mountain states were Sheridan, Wyo., with 102 and Havre, Mont., on the Canadian border, with 104. The day's topmark was 106 at Daggett, Calif. The far southwest continued hot.

The planet Mercury is about 36 million miles from the sun compared to about 93 million for the earth.
